Just as Bruno Pontecorvo was about to come to Liverpool in 1950, instead he disappeared through the Iron Curtain. Why this discoverer of the key to nuclear reactors and weapons fled so suddenly has been a mystery for 65 years. Frank Close now gives the answers, tells how Pontecorvo missed a Nobel Prize due to being in the USSR, and reveals the seminal role of the infamous Kim Philby.