Accreditation

The University of Liverpool Management School is one of an elite group of institutions worldwide to hold the gold standard 'triple-crown' accreditation from AACSB, AMBA and EQUIS.

Accreditation in detail

AACSB

AACSB Accreditation Standards require a high quality teaching environment, a commitment to continuous improvement, and curricula responsive to the needs of businesses. This achievement means that the Management School meets specific standards of excellence. It also means it's committed to on-going improvement in delivering high quality education.

AMBA

AMBA is the highest standard of achievement in postgraduate business education. MBA students and graduates, business schools and employers all recognise it as a gold standard. AMBA's rigorous criteria and assessment process ensure that only programmes that demonstrate the highest standards in teaching, learning and curriculum design; career development and employability; and student, alumni and employer interaction achieve accreditation.

CIM

Chartered Institute of Marketing \(CIM\)

University of Liverpool has partnered with The Chartered Institute of Marketing (CIM) to map the content of our BA Marketing, against their unique Professional Employability Criteria – a framework of behaviours, knowledges, and skills required of today's graduates.

CIM is the world's leading professional marketing body and by recognising that our BA Marketing maps to the body's recommended criteria, it ensures our students are best equipped to progress their knowledge and career.

Our BA Marketing programmes have exemptions from modules on the Level 4 Certificate in Professional Marketing and the modules on the Level 6 Diploma in Professional Marketing.

Our MSc Marketing course has a Graduate Gateway exemption from the Strategic Marketing module on the Level 6 professional qualification.

EQUIS

The School is also accredited by EQUIS, which is the leading international system of quality assessment, improvement and accreditation of higher education institutions in management and business administration.

Institutions that are accredited by EQUIS must demonstrate not only high general quality in all dimensions of their activities, but also a high degree of internationalisation and corporate connections.

Semester one

During the first semester, you will undertake three compulsory modules of 20 credits each (60 credits in total).

COMPULSORY MODULES

- ULMS575 Marketing Management

This module provides a comprehensive exploration of marketing management, encompassing both core concepts and contemporary service marketing principles. Students will engage with marketing as both a business function and a business philosophy, develop critical academic skills, and examine current trends that impact customer experiences and service quality. The syllabus combines theoretical knowledge with practical applications, preparing students for strategic roles in marketing.

- ULMS576 Research Methods in Practice

This module immerses students in the practical and theoretical aspects of marketing research, focusing on how data informs strategic decisions in marketing contexts. It is designed to provide students with robust skills in market research methodologies, data analysis, and data storytelling. Throughout the module, students will engage with real-world companies to gain hands-on experience and produce actionable insights, preparing them for professional roles across sectors such as digital marketing, tourism, retail, and data analytics.

- ULMS579 Social Media Marketing

This module provides an in-depth exploration of the dynamic world of social media, equipping students with the knowledge and skills needed to navigate and leverage these platforms effectively. Through a combination of theoretical frameworks and practical applications, students will engage with key concepts in social media strategy, content creation, influencer dynamics, online community building and data driven decisions.

Programme details and modules listed are illustrative only and subject to change.

Semester two

During the second semester, you will undertake three compulsory modules of 20 credits each (60 credits in total).

- ULMS577 Critical Perspectives on Consumption

A critical understanding of consumers is central to the business of marketing strategy. This module moves beyond the traditional focus and the act of buying (buyer behaviour), to focus on having and being as fundamental processes in value formation. Consumer behaviour in this regard is more than buying, it also embraces the study of how having (or not having) things affects our lives, and how our possessions influence the way we feel about ourselves and each other. We will provide students with the knowledge and skills to understand the consumer, their aspirations, their behaviours and their needs. Building on students' fundamental knowledge of marketing, this module will provoke critical thinking around consumption. As organisations are becoming increasingly engaged in addressing the global challenges of creating a more sustainable and just society for present and future generations, students will develop their critical understanding of ethical concerns in relation to responsible marketing, and the ethics of consumption. It provides an opportunity for students to consider alternative approaches to the study of marketing and consumption, preparing students to become responsible marketers and global citizens.

- ULMS578 Marketing Strategy and Analytics

In the modern business world, companies increasingly rely on marketing data to make decisions. According to a recent survey of CMOs (Chief Marketing Officers), customer insights rank among the most important knowledge assets of the firm. In this context, modern marketing strategy and analytics have assumed their well-deserved position as a critical business function. The objective of the course will be to show the benefits of using a systematic and analytical approach to marketing. This module is designed to educate students on the use of marketing strategy principles as well as social media analytics to analyse customer responses to firms' current marketing programmes and online activities and derive recommended actions. A particular focus will be on generating customer/consumer insights from social media and product reviews. Students will also use and execute data-analytic techniques and case studies to critically understand how to solve marketing strategy problems in a scientific and process-driven manner. In this module, students will work with real-life data sets and cases, e.g., Company data, online reviews about a brand, and develop an in-depth understanding of statistical software. Students will be introduced to statistical concepts and coding principles.

- ULMS580 Digital Marketing

This module offers a comprehensive exploration of key concepts, tools, and techniques in digital marketing and analytics, focusing on how organisations can strategically engage consumers in the digital space. It covers both foundational and advanced topics, including search engine optimisation (SEO), AI ethics, social media marketing and influencer marketing. Students will critically evaluate digital marketing performance metrics, conduct media text analysis, and evaluate digital marketing communication, with a critical perspective on AI applications. A significant component of the module involves appraising influencer marketing strategies, where students will learn to select and assess optimal influencers, perform network analysis, and evaluate influencer performance to design and execute effective digital engagement strategies. By the end of the module, students will have developed a sophisticated toolkit for strategically contributing to and measuring the impact of digital marketing and influencer campaigns, demonstrating mastery in both the practical and theoretical aspects of digital engagement.

Final project

You will complete your course with a final 60-credit applied research project or dissertation. You will choose from one of the following modules:

- ULMS719 Advanced Management Research
- ULMS790 Dissertation.

For your final project you will be supported by an academic supervisor.

Teaching and assessment

How you'll learn

Our Digital Marketing and Analytics MSc is delivered via online material, lectures, tutorials, practical tasks, interactive activities, case studies and project work.

Lectures will provide you the main of concepts, principles and theories around data-driven marketing.

You will then apply what you have learned during the lectures in practical sessions focused on real-life case studies, involving group or individual work.

Following semester two, you will complete a dissertation with the support of an academic supervisor.

This final project will deepen your knowledge, understanding and capabilities by undertaking research in a distinct area of data-driven marketing.

Teaching time accounts for an average of 10 hours per week. However, you should anticipate an additional 24 hours of self-directed study and group work per week.

How you're assessed

To achieve your MSc qualification, you need to complete 180 credits:

- Semester One: three 20-credit modules (60 credits in total)
- Semester Two: three 20-credit modules (60 credits in total)
- Final project: 60 credits.

You must pass all the modules with a minimum grade of 50%. Subject to meeting specific criteria outlined by the University, you will graduate with a Pass, Merit or Distinction.

Assessment tasks are varied, and some may be explicitly designed to meet the learning outcomes of a particular programme of study.

You can expect to be assessed via coursework, essay, group work, (video) presentations, case studies, infographics, reports and examinations.

The weighting of individual assessment components varies across modules. You will find detailed information of this in the module specification.

Entry requirements

The qualifications and exam results you'll need to apply for this course.

Postgraduate entry requirements

We accept a 2:2 honours degree from a UK university, or an equivalent academic qualification from a similar non-UK institution. The MSc Marketing is suitable for graduates of any discipline and assumes no prior knowledge of marketing, and is, therefore, not suitable for applicants with a first degree in Marketing.

Non-graduates with very extensive professional experience and/or other prior qualifications may also be considered.

International qualifications

Select your country or region to view specific entry requirements.

Many countries have a different education system to that of the UK, meaning your qualifications may not meet our entry requirements. Completing your Foundation Certificate, such as that offered by the University of Liverpool International College, means you're guaranteed a place on your chosen course.

English language requirements

You'll need to demonstrate competence in the use of English language, unless you're from a majority English speaking country.

We accept a variety of international language tests and country-specific qualifications.

International applicants who do not meet the minimum required standard of English language can complete one of our Pre-Sessional English courses to achieve the required level.

Pre-sessional English

Do you need to complete a Pre-sessional English course to meet the English language requirements for this course?

The length of Pre-sessional English course you'll need to take depends on your current level of English language ability.

Pre-sessional English in detail

If you don't meet our English language requirements, we can use your most recent IELTS score, or the equivalent score in selected other English language tests, to determine the length of Pre-sessional English course you require.

Use the table below to check the course length you're likely to require for your current English language ability and see whether the course is available on campus or online.

Your most recent IELTS score	Pre-sessional English course length	On campus or online
6.0 overall, with no component below 6.0	6 weeks	On campus
6.0 overall, with no component below 5.5	10 weeks	On campus and online options available
6.0 overall, with no more than one component below 5.5, and no component below 5.0	12 weeks	On campus and online options available
5.5 overall, with no more than one component below 5.5, and no component below 5.0	20 weeks	On campus
5.0 overall, with no more than one component below 5.0, and no component below 4.5	30 weeks	On campus
4.5 overall, with no more than one component below 4.5, and no	40 weeks	On campus
