About this course

Our English Language programme aims to develop your understanding of the ways in which language works in the world. You will study the development and uses of the English language in a variety of social, historical, and educational contexts, and gain insights into the ways in which the language we use in everyday life is shaped by factors such as literature, culture and psychology.

Introduction

Your first year of study focuses on building key skills and knowledge to prepare you for more specialised study. You will explore the history, development and contexts of the English language, and will have the opportunity to apply methods of language analysis to literary texts and other media.

In your second and final years, you will be able to choose specialist modules in topics such as psycholinguistics, language and gender, the history of English, child language acquisition, language and computing, and teaching English to speakers of other languages. The final year also includes an option to write a dissertation on a research project of your own design, or to do a work placement with an organisation relevant to your degree through the SOTA300 module.

Year in industry

This programme is available with an optional year in industry. If this is chosen, year three is spent on a paid placement within an organisation in industry, broadly defined.

You will be supported by the School of the Arts and the Department throughout, and your reflexive written account of the experience will contribute towards your final degree result. If you wish to study this programme with a year in industry, please put the option code 'YI' in the 'further choices' section of your UCAS application form.

English Attainment Scholarships

We are pleased to offer two attainment scholarships per year to undergraduate students from the UK. The scholarships will cover the entire UK tuition fee for both years two and three (currently £9,250 per annum). Awards will be made by the department at the end of year one, based on performance.

What you'll learn

- Extended knowledge of the English Language and its development
- Critical thinking and analysis
- Independent research and evaluation skills
- Language data analysis
- Specialist terminology and nomenclature
- Advanced literacy and communication skills
- Referencing and bibliographic skills
- Time management and organisation

Programme details and modules listed are illustrative only and subject to change.

Final year

You will choose entirely optional modules, all of which are designed to allow greater specialisation and generic and/or thematic focus. Modules at this level will often reflect the current research of our academic staff and will allow you to explore the applications of language study in contexts such as education and the legal system. These modules will enable you to take part in debates about the current and future directions of the subject, and enable you to develop your skills of independent research. Your options may include a dissertation on a subject of your choosing or a work placement with an organisation relevant to your degree.

- SOTA300 is not available to students who have taken the year in industry.
- Students may not take both SOTA300 and a dissertation module.
- If taking the dissertation option, you may choose to take it in semester one (ENGL311), semester two (ENGL379), or over the course of the year (ENGL380).

Combined degree

Choosing this subject as a combined degree

In year one, you will take modules that aim to develop your knowledge of the history and development of the English language and to build the analytical skills needed for advanced study. In years two and three, you will choose from a range of modules that allow you to specialise in key areas of language.

In each year, you will take 60 credits of English and 60 credits from your other subject choice.

Teaching and assessment

How you'll learn

You will experience a mix of workshops, seminars and tutorials. Alongside independent study and research, some modules require timetabled student group work. We provide an online programme of study skills to help with the necessary standards of referencing and presentation in written work.

Tutorials last for one hour, and allow for discussion of key readings, concepts and ideas, typically in groups of up to nine students. Seminar groups last for two hours, in groups of up to fourteen. Workshops are delivered to the whole module cohort, and have a more distinct practical element. In addition, in your second and final years, you will participate in a range of other formative activities such as seminar presentations.

How you're assessed

In the first and second years, the main modes of assessment are a combination of essay and online examination. In the third year you will encounter assessments designed to prepare you for the world of work, such as reports, evaluations, presentations, and projects. There are no examinations in the third year.

Liverpool Hallmarks

We have a distinctive approach to education, the Liverpool Curriculum Framework, which focuses on research-connected teaching, active learning, and authentic assessment to ensure our students graduate as digitally fluent and confident global citizens.

The Liverpool Curriculum framework sets out our distinctive approach to education. Our teaching staff support our students to develop academic knowledge, skills, and understanding alongside our graduate attributes:

- Digital fluency
- Confidence
- Global citizenship

Our curriculum is characterised by the three Liverpool Hallmarks:

- Research-connected teaching
- Active learning
- Authentic assessment

All this is underpinned by our core value of inclusivity and commitment to providing a curriculum that is accessible to all students.

Careers and employability

As a student in the School of the Arts, you will be supported to maximise your employability from day one. Our English degree programmes are valued by employers who recognise the skills our students develop, including teamwork, project design, critical thinking, proficiency in text analysis and communication and presentation skills.

The School has its own Placements and Employability Officer, and you will have the opportunity to undertake a semester-long work placement or a year in industry. We offer a popular poetry publishing placement through the SOTA300 work experience module, and you can read about the experiences of students who have undertaken this placement – and since found employment in the publishing industry – here.

Our graduates leave to take up a very wide range of careers. A number take up jobs in journalism, broadcasting, or advertising; some begin as management trainees in a variety of businesses; others start their careers in retailing, computing, librarianship, the arts or the Civil Service. Many go on to train further as teachers, or as solicitors or accountants; some pursue careers in teaching English as a foreign language.

Pre-sessional English

Do you need to complete a Pre-sessional English course to meet the English language requirements for this course?

The length of Pre-sessional English course you'll need to take depends on your current level of English language ability.

Pre-sessional English in detail

If you don't meet our English language requirements, we can use your most recent IELTS score, or the equivalent score in selected other English language tests, to determine the length of Pre-sessional English course you require.

Use the table below to check the course length you're likely to require for your current English language ability and see whether the course is available on campus or online.

Your most recent IELTS score	Pre-sessional English course length	On campus or online
6.0 overall, with no component below 5.5	6 weeks	On campus
5.5 overall, with no component below 5.5	10 weeks	On campus and online options available

Your most recent IELTS score	Pre-sessional English course length	On campus or online
5.5 overall, with no more than one component below 5.5, and no component below 5.0	12 weeks	On campus and online options available
5.5 overall, with no component below 4.5	20 weeks	On campus
5.0 overall, with no component below 4.5	30 weeks	On campus
4.5 overall, with no more than one component below 4.5, and no component below 4.0	40 weeks	On campus

If you've completed an alternative English language test to IELTS, we may be able to use this to assess your English language ability and determine the Pre-sessional English course length you require.

Please see our guide to Pre-sessional English entry requirements for IELTS 6.5 overall, with no component below 5.5, for further details.
