About this course

This programme provides you with the skills and experience needed to progress your music performance to the next level. With support from professionals in the industry and the expert guidance of our lecturers, you will develop your craft as a prospective professional musician.

Introduction

Our MMus Music Performance and Education develops solo and ensemble performance, teaching, and research skills appropriate to performance.

Here at Liverpool you will learn in an interdisciplinary teaching and research environment and with a diverse and international student community.

With dedicated small group and one-on-one teaching, the department offers a vibrant and active performance environment, and opportunities to develop connections with local and national music institutions.

You will have access to excellent studio and practice facilities and will perform in the Tung Auditorium (opened 2022) a cutting edge 400-seat, acoustically-optimised music performance space that has two top-of-the-range Steinways.

What you'll learn

- You will develop key performance skills in both a solo and ensemble capacity, enabling you to improve your musicianship and confidence in concert or gig environments.

- You will learn music teaching techniques and professional practice to help equip you with skills that you need to move forward in a career teaching music, and have the option to undertake a short placement experience.
- You'll learn how to engage with and effectively produce research related to performance, with a view to developing as a distinctive, enquiring practitioner.
- You will learn how to prepare professionally and will have opportunities to perform with members of the Royal Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra or professional jazz performers for performance assessments.
- Teaching will adapt to your specialism, so whether you are a classical or jazz musician, you will have opportunities to undertake performance work beyond standard recitals.

Teaching and assessment

How you'll learn

Teaching on the MMus in Music Performance is delivered through a combination of lectures, seminars and tutorials held on campus, as well as 20 hours of 1–1 specialist instrumental/vocal tuition. There are also opportunities for students to participate in masterclass workshops and perform with members of the Royal Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra (RLPO). All students take all modules, which cover solo and ensemble performance, research, and pedagogy; concluding with a major project which can specialise or combine these areas. Class sizes are typically between 10–15 students.

How you're assessed

Students on the MMus are assessed through a combination of formative and summative coursework. This takes a number of different forms, including research portfolios, reflective and research essays, presentations, and performances (both solo and ensemble).

Entry requirements

The qualifications and exam results you'll need to apply for this course.

Postgraduate entry requirements

We accept a 2:2 honours degree from a UK university, or an equivalent academic qualification from a similar non-UK institution. This degree should be in Music, alone or jointly with another subject. Conservatoire diplomas, particularly from EU and International applicants, may be acceptable in lieu of first degrees.

An interview usually forms part of the selection process.

We look at the individual qualities of applicants and encourage applications from those with first degrees obtained from music conservatories and mature students with non-traditional backgrounds.

You will be required to submit evidence of your performance skills. This should take the form of a video where you are performing classical or jazz music for 15–20 minutes. Please include a link to the performance demo in your supporting statement.

International qualifications

Select your country or region to view specific entry requirements.

Many countries have a different education system to that of the UK, meaning your qualifications may not meet our entry requirements. Completing your Foundation Certificate, such as that offered by the University of Liverpool International College, means you're guaranteed a place on your chosen course.

English language requirements

You'll need to demonstrate competence in the use of English language, unless you're from a majority English speaking country.

We accept a variety of international language tests and country-specific qualifications.

International applicants who do not meet the minimum required standard of English language can complete one of our Pre-Sessional English courses to achieve the required level.
