

Vision and Stroke patient public panel (ViSable)

Who are ViSable?

The Vision and Stroke patient public panel is a group of lay people who advise on guidelines, practice, research proposals and other relevant documentation in relation to visual impairment following stroke.

The panel includes stroke survivors with visual impairment as well as carers of stroke survivors.

What do we do?

We provide an experience base and a voice for stroke survivors and carers. We act as a sounding board, on behalf of stroke survivors, to support research activity.

What is our purpose?

The aims of our panel are:

- To review vision and stroke research protocols
- To generate research ideas
- To report information and concerns from stroke survivors and carers to relevant organisations and charities.

When do we meet?

We meet three times per year.

Get involved

We are keen to expand this group further. If you are interested please contact Prof Fiona Rowe at the University of Liverpool.
