

Authors	Title/Year	Summary	Method	Open Access URL (if available)
Abu S. Abdullah, et al.	'Addressing Parental Smoking in Pediatric Settings of Chinese Hospitals: A Qualitative Study of Parents' (2014)	Exploration of factors associated with SHS exposure from parental smoking in Chinese families and the nature of antismoking discussions between parents and paediatricians.	6 focus group discussions involving 33 parents sampled from six hospitals in the Guanxi province of China	https://www.hindawi.com/journals/bmri/2014/382345/
Audrey L. Begun, Sheila M. Barnhart, Thomas K. Gregoire & Edward G. Shepherd	'If Mothers Had Their Say: Research-Informed Intervention Design for Empowering Mothers to Establish Smoke-Free Homes' (2014)	Exploration of effective interventions for reducing/eliminating environmental tobacco smoke exposure of infants with compromised respiratory status.	Phase I: Semi-structured interviews with 20 caretakers of infants diagnosed with Bronchopulmonary Dysplasia (BPD) Phase II: Review of 75 randomly-selected medical records of infants with BPD	Open access not available
Carla J. Berg, et al.	'Smoke-Free Public Policies and Voluntary Policies in Personal Settings in Tbilisi, Georgia: A Qualitative Study' (2016)	Exploration of knowledge about and reactions to public and personal smoke-free policies among residents in Tbilisi, Georgia.	Six focus group discussions involving 47 participants recruited via fliers and posters posted throughout Tbilisi	http://www.mdpi.com/1660-4601/13/2/156
Carla J. Berg, Pinpin Zheng and Michelle C. Kegler	'Perceived benefits of smoke-free homes, the process of establishing them, and enforcement challenges in Shanghai, China: a qualitative study' (2015)	Examination of the reasons for, and process through which, smoke-free homes are established and the challenges for enforcing them in Shanghai, China.	30 in-person semi-structured interviews among 13 male smokers and 17 female Non-smokers recruited from urban and a suburban communities in Shanghai	https://bmcpublihealth.biomedcentral.com/articles/10.1186/s12889-015-1428-8
Marewa Glover, et al.	'Australian and New Zealand Indigenous mothers' report'	Exploration of how smokefree rules were set and enforced around	Qualitative semi- structured interviews were conducted with	Open access not available

	respect for smoking bans in homes (2015)	Australian and New Zealand Indigenous infants.	26 Indigenous mothers of infants in Australia (n = 7) and NZ (n = 19).
Cath Jackson, et al.	"He doesn't listen to my words at all, so I don't tell him anything" – A qualitative investigation on exposure to second hand smoke among pregnant women, their husbands and family members from rural Bangladesh and urban India' (2016)	Exploration of the knowledge, attitudes and practices regarding home SHS exposure amongst pregnant women, their husbands and other family members.	Semi-structured interviews were conducted with 33 participants in Comilla, Bangladesh and 31 in Bangalore, India (36 pregnant women, 18 husbands, and 10 family members)	http://www.mdpi.com/1660-4601/13/11/1098
Aimei Mao and Jude Robinson	'Home smoking restrictions before, during and after pregnancy – a qualitative study in rural China' (2016)	Exploration of home smoking management in rural China.	Mixed methods: ethnographic study, 29 semi-structured interviews and 13 follow-up interviews, with participants recruited through network sampling.	https://academic.oup.com/heapro/article/31/3/606/1751637
Sophie Orton, Tim Coleman, Sarah Lewis, Sue Cooper and Laura L. Jones	"I was a full time proper smoker": A qualitative exploration of smoking in the home after childbirth among women who relapse postpartum' (2016)	To understand experiences of relapse and if/how this influences home smoking behaviours and children's exposure to SHS in the home among women who stopped smoking during pregnancy.	Semi-structured interviews with women who quit smoking during pregnancy, but relapse ≤3 months postpartum.	http://journals.plos.org/plosone/article?id=10.1371/journal.pone.0157525
Neneh Rowa-Dewar and Amanda Amos	'Disadvantaged parents' engagement with a national Secondhand Smoke in the Home mass media campaign: a	An exploration of how parents with young children living in disadvantaged circumstances engaged with a national campaign	Semi-structured interviews conducted with 17 parents before and after the Scottish 2014 "Right Outside" mass	http://www.mdpi.com/1660-4601/13/9/901

	qualitative study' (2016)	which aimed to raise awareness of the importance of smokefree homes.	media campaign.
Neneh Rowa-Dewar, Colin Lumsdaine, and Amanda Amos	'Protecting children from smoke exposure in disadvantaged homes' (2015)	Exploration of challenges faced by mothers who smoke when attempting to protect their children from SHS exposure in disadvantaged homes.	Semi-structured interviews with 22 disadvantaged mothers of children aged 1–3 years in Scotland, using an innovative floor plan method to prompt accounts.	Open access not available
Chia Yin Wang, et al.	'The experiences of women who quit smoking during pregnancy and how they dealt with their spouses' continued smoking' (2014)	Exploration of how pregnant women in Taiwan dealt with their spouses who continued to smoke and with passive smoking during their own process of quitting and abstaining.	Oral history approach vis-à-vis two to three times deep semi-structured interviews of 10 participants.	Open access not available
Jae-Yung Kwon, John L. Oliffe, Joan L. Bottorff, Mary T. Kelly	'Heterosexual Gender Relations and Masculinity in Fathers Who Smoke' (2014)	Exploration of the role of masculinity and heterosexual gender relations in new and expectant fathers' explanations of their continued smoking.	Secondary analysis of in-depth interviews with 20 fathers	https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC4239006/
Anastasia Phillips, Abdul Monaem and Christine Newman	'A qualitative study of smoking within a Western Sydney Arabic-speaking community: a focus on men in the context of their families' (2015)	Exploration of smoking within an Arabic-speaking community in Sydney, focusing on men's smoking in the context of their families	6 focus groups involving 60 Arabic-speaking participants recruited through health-workers, counsellors and community leaders in Western Sydney, Australia.	Open access not available