Welcome to Liverpool – a vibrant and diverse student hub that was voted the fourth friendliest city in the world (Rough Guides). Combining big city opportunities with the security of our self-contained campus, we can offer you the support you need to thrive.

As one of the newest members of our 33,000-strong global student community, you are now part of an international network, with access to world-class teaching, first-rate services and outstanding facilities.

Whatever help you need to achieve your potential, our support teams will do their best to help you accomplish your goals.
Established in 1882, the University has a long and illustrious history, dating from the day University College opened its doors to our first 45 students. In 1892, the Victoria Building – which sits centre-stage at the heart of our campus community – opened. The building gave rise to the term ‘red brick university’.

Principal founding fathers, James Campbell Brown, Charles Beard and William Rathbone, laid the early foundations for our research pedigree, by attracting pioneers. One such pioneer was Oliver Lodge, who made the first public radio transmission in 1894 and demonstrated the first surgical use of X-rays two years later.

Medical innovation was to become a key feature of the University. Recognition of our work led to the University being granted its Royal Charter in 1903. Nine Nobel Laureates were to pass through our doors in the following 100 years, along with many high-achieving alumni. Along the way we were the first university to establish departments in Oceanography, Civic Design, Architecture and Biochemistry, and we remain the only UK institution with full clinical coverage.

Social media is an important communication tool which you probably already use to socialise, network and interact online.

It’s a great way to keep in touch with your social circle and stay abreast of world news and events, but it is also a major part of building your online profile – something which will come in very handy when you start looking for jobs or further study opportunities.

Social media presents a real opportunity if it is used effectively. Students and graduates have more platforms and tools now than ever before to show what they can bring to an employer. It can equip you with useful and highly transferable skills, which can make you stand out from the crowd in a competitive jobs market.

Many companies have a presence on social media and graduate employers are increasingly using the networks during the selection process for jobs, some even as part of the decision-making process supporting the screening of applications.

It is important to check your privacy settings carefully and be mindful about the comments you make on social networking sites.

Avoid getting involved in online activity which could reflect negatively on you, either now or in the future. The information you post online will exist forever, and it won’t be difficult for potential employers to find what you might prefer them not to!

For help, hints and tips about how to make social media work for you while you are studying, please view our Student Guide to Social Media at: https://student.liverpool.ac.uk/forms-policies-and-procedures/student-guide-to-social-media/

This guide will help you to understand how to use social media effectively and safely, and avoid the kind of social media activity which may reflect negatively on you with employers.

It will also help you to navigate the University of Liverpool Social Media Compliance Policy:
https://www.liverpool.ac.uk/media/livacuk/computingservices/regulations/social-media-policy.pdf

This policy is in place to protect University security as well as the reputation and personal security of students while using social media.

Now that you have arrived at University, you will want to make friends, find your way around and get to know more about your University and the city.

Remember that as first year students, everyone will be meeting for the first time and it’s okay to take your time to get to know people and settle in.

Leaving home and meeting new people can seem overwhelming, especially if we see others who seem perfectly at ease and are forming friendships and becoming part of a group.

Things you can do:

- Don’t wait for other people to visit you or speak to you. Try to talk to people sitting next to you in class or at meals.
- Try to find situations where you will meet people with interests similar to your own.
- Look for activities that you are really interested in and enjoy – e.g. societies, sport, voluntary work.
- The Guild of Students’ web pages contain lots of information, including how to join a society, opportunities for volunteering and more: www.liverpoolguild.org.
- View the ‘Sport Liverpool’ web pages which are full of information on classes and sporting activities available at the University Sports and Fitness Centre: www.liverpool.ac.uk/sports.
- The halls student experience team organise events to help you settle into your life in halls. Halls Life enables students to keep up to date with the latest news, offers and events around campus: www.liverpool.ac.uk/accommodation/hallslife.
- Consider doing things on your own. You can try a range of things via the Guild’s Give It A Go programme. Don’t miss out on things because you have nobody to do them with e.g. going to a concert or seeing a film.

Try and make non-course friends, such as those in your halls or on your corridor. Be yourself and be aware that not everyone makes friends straight away, although it may seem that way.

If you find you are struggling and would like to speak to someone, you can contact Advice and Guidance in confidence: www.liverpool.ac.uk/studentsupport/advice.

Many students coming to university and leaving home for the first time feel homesick.

Even those who didn’t ever expect to be hit by homesickness can suddenly find themselves missing the familiarity of home and friends, and don’t know quite how to cope with the resulting emotions. This is entirely normal and passes, usually in the first term, and often within the first few weeks.

It is really important to realise that you are not the only one feeling homesick and that it doesn’t in any way mean you are inadequate. Suddenly, you find that, instead of being a central person in a small unit with plenty of peripheral activities and friends, you have become an anonymous member of a five thousand plus community where you know no-one.

Understandably you feel shaken and lonely and you long for the secure and the familiar. Sometimes the emotions are completely overwhelming.

What can you do to help yourself?

Most importantly: acknowledge your feelings and accept them. Believe that they will pass. They almost always do.

Decide whether the best policy for you is to have frequent contact with home (because contact makes you feel better), or little contact (because contact makes you feel worse)

Think carefully about whether or not to go home at weekends (if this is possible). Some students find it helps to ease the transition; others find the constant readjustment makes them feel worse.

Make a real effort to join societies/activities and to make at least one or two friends. This might feel very difficult, but the more you feel part of campus life, the less homesick you will feel.

Familiarise yourself with the Guild of Students. Apart from all that it offers it is an excellent way to meet people in the early days before lectures and social events are really underway. Take a book and sit in a corner and read if you are afraid of seeming conspicuous.

Try to establish a routine as soon as possible. The fuller your days are, the less time you will have to feel homesick or lonely.

Volunteer to help with something - there are plenty of groups looking for volunteers.

Sometimes it helps to share feelings of homesickness. Sharing these feelings may take you over the worst period.

BUDGETING TIPS

Make sure you are getting all of the money you are entitled to – if you are not sure visit MAG who will check your entitlement to funding and, if applicable, welfare benefits.

- Don’t be tempted to rush out and spend all of your student loan at the start of term – remember most students funding is paid in three large chunks and must last until your next payment.
- Set up arrangements to pay your rent first – this will be by far your biggest expense.
- Look at gaining part-time employment – visit the Careers & Employability Service.
- Buy supermarket own brands or try shopping late in the evening when food is often reduced.
- Buy non-perishable food in bulk and cook from scratch, you can batch cook meals with friends and freeze until you want to use. It’s healthier and cheaper.
- Make sure you use your NUS card for discounts but always remember to ask in shops and restaurants if they offer discounts – not everywhere will always advertise student discounts.
- Don’t buy food on an empty stomach – you will only buy what you want and not what you need.
- Seek advice from MAG if you are struggling to manage your money – we can help you set a budget plan.

THE UNIVERSITY COUNSELLING SERVICE

The Counselling Service provides confidential support if you are experiencing distressing psychological and emotional problems which affect your studies and general wellbeing. Counsellors also help deliver self-help workshop sessions across the University relating to maintaining good mental health and as part of the libraries’ KnowHow programme (anxiety management, exam stress, mindfulness, etc).

The service provides a supportive pathway with a stepped care model. This means that you can access help quickly and get the most effective help for your needs.

We offer something called Single Session Therapy (SST) as a drop in service. SST is a one off session that helps you deal with a specific concern or worry. This appointment is usually sufficient for many students. We also offer longer term counselling should this be appropriate.

“The ambience was perfect. The counsellor was very careful, listened to me well, helped motivate me and gave good techniques”

“I realised what the root of some of my problems/feelings were and now have practical steps to take”

“The person I talked to was very understanding and willing to help”

Mental health can be described as your own personal sense of wellbeing. It can be useful to understand mental health and wellbeing as being along a continuum, and like physical health, it naturally fluctuates in response to life events, situations and environments.

Despite mental health difficulties being very common, people are frequently reluctant to talk about their mental health. It is estimated that one in four adults will experience mental health difficulties in any one year and evidence suggests that people between the ages of 18 and 22 are at increased risk of developing mental health difficulties.

Combined with the stress factors of university life, such as moving away from home, financial concerns and academic demands, students can be at further risk. Or, if you have experienced mental health difficulties in the past, you may find that the initial adjustment to student life can affect your usual coping strategies. For some, mental health difficulties will be relatively mild and transient in nature, but for others they will be more significant.

You may not have a diagnosis for your mental health difficulty or alternatively it may be the case that you are offered a diagnosis, examples of which include anxiety, depression, a mood disorder, eating disorder, or psychosis.

While many students with mental health difficulties manage university life well, there will be some students who, for a variety of reasons, find that their mental health is affected and this may impact upon their academic work, ability to settle into university life, make friends and have a positive experience. This may be one of the reasons that they choose to access Student Support Services to aid with this transition to life at University.
If you feel concerned that you, a friend or one of your fellow students may have concerns relating to their mental health then you may wish to contact or consult with the Mental Health Advisory Service.

The Mental Health Advisory Service is a confidential service and is generally available between the hours of 9am – 5pm (Monday – Friday). The Mental Health Advisory Service is based within the Student Services Centre, Alsop Building, Brownlow Hill. Liverpool L3 5TX.

Tel: 0151 794 3304, Email: counserv@liverpool.ac.uk
You will find a range of health services in and around the University, including an on-campus General Practice and a drop-in health advice centre at the main halls of residence.

If you have moved to Liverpool for your studies, you will live for the majority of the year in Liverpool and so this is seen as your main place of residence. If you live at any of the Halls of Residence or close to the University then it is likely that you will be within the practice boundary for Brownlow Health Central who operate Student Health Services.

The Student Health Service on campus is a valuable service provided by the University through a local GP Practice called Brownlow Health.

Staff will be available at all the welcome events if you wish to register upon arrival and all staff will be happy to give more details of the services provided. You may also register at any time of the year online via the website. This service is quick and easy. Or alternatively, call into our site to complete a registration form.

The medical team includes Doctors and Nurse Practitioners (all of whom can prescribe medication), and the wider support team also includes physiotherapists and psychology services. Brownlow Health also offer e consultations for medical and administrative queries. Details on how to access all services, including opening times and site addresses, are available on the website, or

If you choose not to register with Student Health Services and Brownlow Health then it is recommended that you register with a GP Practice close to your Liverpool address, as it is very important that you have comprehensive medical care in the place where you live. This is particularly important if you have a long-term condition such as asthma or diabetes.

Universities can be breeding grounds for infections. Vaccinations are available to prevent the risk of serious illness. It is advisable to check with your GP before coming to University that you have received vaccinations for Measles, Mumps and Rubella (MMR) and for Meningitis.

The Liverpool Light is a preventative out-of-hours mental health crisis service. It has been set up to provide a safe place for people experiencing mental health or other crisis to meet their needs and begin their recovery.

This space offers a secure environment for individuals to deescalate, recuperate and begin their recovery. They provide a specialised referral service outside of GP and day service hours and offers an alternative to the A&E department at the nearby Royal Liverpool University Hospital.

Liverpool Light will also be able to refer to our partner organisations if there are any other issues such as debt, risk of homelessness, benefits and welfare advice, domestic violence refuge, refugee support and substance misuse.

You can self-refer into this service or be referred in from an external agency.

The service is open from 18.00 to 01.00 seven days a week and it is also a drop in service so no appointment is necessary. People can just call in any time they may need support.

SAFE IN THE CITY

Although Liverpool has been rated as one of the UK’s safest cities, it is still wise to take steps to make sure you are safe whilst out and about.

Here are some simple things to remember:

When you are out and about:

- Walk confidently and be aware of your surroundings - listening with headphones or talking on the phone reduces your awareness of what’s around you.

- Be vigilant when using your phone when out and about; only use it for calls if necessary. Try to keep your phone out of sight.

- If you need to withdraw cash, try to do it in the day, when there are more people about and only take out what you need. Make sure you protect your PIN. If you do need to withdraw cash late at night, use a machine in a well-lit area and stay with friends.

- If you are travelling alone on public transport, try to avoid waiting at isolated bus stops and have change ready to avoid getting your purse or wallet out in public.

If you and your friends are out in the evening, remember:

- There is safety in numbers - don’t wander off on your own. If you do have to walk home, walk with friends and try to stick to main roads that are well populated, even if it means taking a longer alternative route.

- Avoid poorly lit areas.

- Plan your journey home before you set off. Remember to use a licensed taxi or black cab. Don’t hitch-hike or accept lifts from strangers.

- Drink responsibly - you are far more vulnerable when you are drunk, especially if you are on your own. Try and stay with a group of friends. Eat before you go out and try to alternate alcoholic drinks with soft drinks or water. Know your limits and stay in control.

ABOUT LIVERPOOL BUILDINGS
Liverpool’s rich and varied heritage is visible everywhere, but particularly in its buildings. A city built on trade from distant shores, it draws on influences from far and wide. Take a walk around the city and look closely at the architecture and you will see for yourself. Here are some of the most impressive.

THE THREE GRACES
Liverpool’s Pier Head is home to three of the most famous buildings in the city. ‘The Three Graces’, as they are known, consist of the Royal Liver Building, Cunard Building and the Port of Liverpool Building.

THE ROYAL LIVER BUILDING
The Royal Liver Building was constructed between 1908 and 1911 and was designed by Walter Aubrey Thomas. The grade 1 listed building is known for its two clock towers on which stand the mythical Liver Birds. There are numerous myths and legends surrounding the Liver Birds. According to popular legend they are a male and female pair, the female looking out to sea, while the male looks towards the city. Local legend has it that the birds face away from each other as, if they were to mate and fly away, the city would cease to exist. The building is the headquarters of the Royal Liver Friendly Society.

CUNARD BUILDING
The former headquarters of the Cunard Line shipping company was constructed between 1913 and 1916, and is a grade 2 listed building. Designed by William Edward Willink and Philip Coldwell Thacknesse, the building’s style is a mix of Italian Renaissance and Greek Revival, and its development was particularly influenced by Italian palace design. The building was the headquarters of Cunard until the 1960s, when they relocated their global headquarters to New York.

PORT OF LIVERPOOL BUILDING
Built between 1904 and 1907, it stands at an impressive 220ft tall. Designed in Edwardian Baroque style it is noted for its large dome, the focal point at the top of the building. The headquarters of the Mersey Docks and Harbour Board for 87 years, from 1907 to 1994 when they relocated to new premises.
The Central Library buildings symbolise the cultural legacy of the city’s merchants and form an integral part of the World Heritage site in William Brown Street. The Library reopened in May 2013 with a beautifully re-modelled building and a host of new services including:

- 15,000 rare books in the Hornby Library, Oak Room and Picton Reading Room.
- Wi-Fi access throughout the building, plus 150 computers and iPads.
- Spectacular views from the roof terrace and meeting rooms to hire out.
- Ground floor café with a terrace overlooking St John’s Gardens.

Areas are themed so that users can enjoy the best of the building and the resources within it. You can browse the audio books and language courses or use the e-books service. All loans are FREE and it is free to join. You can check out the iPads for quick email.
ANGLICAN CATHEDRAL
Completed in 1978 after 74 years, the largest cathedral in the UK and the fifth largest in the world, towers over the city and can be seen from miles around.

In 1902 an open competition was held to design the Cathedral. This attracted great interest from architects as not only was it one of the largest building projects of the 20th century, but this was only the third opportunity to build an Anglican Cathedral in England following the Reformation of the 16th century.

Entrants included noted architects such as Charles Rennie Mackintosh and Charles Herbert Reilly. However, it was controversially won by 22-year-old student Giles Gilbert Scott who not only had no previous buildings to his credit but was also a Roman Catholic.

METROPOLITAN CATHEDRAL
Known locally as ‘Paddy’s Wigwam’ the original designs for the Cathedral were completed on commission by Sir Edwin Lutyens in the 1930s. Lutyens design would have created a massive structure that would have become the second largest church in the world.

Work began on the Cathedral in 1933, however, by 1941 the restrictions of World War II and rising costs forced construction to stop. In 1956 work recommenced on the crypt and finished in 1958, but the project was deemed too expensive and the crypt remains the only part of Lutyens design to be completed.

In 1959 a competition was held to design a cathedral to accommodate the existing crypt and the winning design, by Sir Frederick Gibberd, is the Cathedral we see today.

ALBERT DOCK
These 19th-century warehouse buildings are the biggest group of grade 1 listed buildings in Britain, converted into an award-winning attraction. The Albert Dock is a stunning architectural triumph. Opened in 1846, it soon became a treasure house of precious international cargoes.

Today it has been transformed into a top heritage attraction and stopping for a break in one of the restaurants, bars and cafes that punctuate this attraction is well recommended.

ST GEORGE’S HALL
Now regarded as one of the finest Neo-Classical buildings in the world, St George’s Hall is a grade I listed building. St George’s Hall fell into disrepair in the 1980s, but now refurbished, it is a focal point for cultural, community, civic, corporate and performing arts activities.

THE IMPERIAL ARCH
This Arch is the largest outside China at 15 metres tall. It was shipped from Shanghai, piece by piece, and placed at the entrance to Chinatown in accordance with the principals of Feng Shui.
The International Slavery Museum opened in August 2007 - the bicentenary of the abolition of the British slave trade. It is the only museum to look at aspects of historical and contemporary slavery as well as being an international hub for resources on human rights issues. It highlights the international importance of slavery, both in a historic and contemporary context. Working in partnership with other institutions, the museum provides opportunities for greater awareness and understanding of the legacy of slavery today. It is located in Liverpool’s Albert Dock, at the centre of a World Heritage site and only yards away from the dry docks where 18th century slave trading ships were repaired and fitted out.

FAMOUS SCOUSERS

Despite being a relatively small city, Liverpool has had more than its fair share of influence in world affairs. From politicians to pop stars, footballers to filmmakers, there seems to be a Scouser on every page of the history books.

POLITICS
William Ewart Gladstone served as Prime Minister several times during his political career, and his Liberal values made him popular throughout the world. In recent times Merseyside has given us politicians such as former actress Glenda Jackson MP, born in Birkenhead, and the current Shadow Health Secretary, Andy Burnham MP.

MUSIC
Liverpool is famously the home of The Beatles, but our influence on the music industry doesn’t end there. The 60s also saw Merseybeat, Frankie Vaughan and Billy Fury emerge from the city into stardom. The 70s and 80s brought us Echo and the Bunnymen, A Flock of Seagulls and Frankie Goes to Hollywood. If you’re an aspiring artist in the city today, you’re in good company. Liverpool groups The Zutons, The Coral, The Wombats and Circa Waves have all made fame in more recent years.

FILM & THEATRE

Liverpool’s Everyman and Playhouse Theatres have been the birthplace of many careers. Legendary writers such as Carla Lane and Willy Russell began their writing careers here.

SPORT

Liverpool FC and Everton FC have been playing top class football for over 50 years. Everton FC, formed in 1878, was a founding member of the Football League in 1888.

TELEVISION

Leonard Rossiter, one of TV’s finest comic actors, was from Liverpool, as are former Dr Who Tom Baker and ‘Skins’ stars Stephen Walters and Joe Dempsie.
THE FESTIVAL GARDENS

The newly restored Liverpool Festival Gardens site opened fully to the public last summer – for the first time in almost 30 years. Managed by the Land Trust, the south Liverpool riverside site closed to the public in 1985 and afterwards fell into neglect and decay. Developers led a restoration project at the 90-acre site on the banks of the River Mersey. The restoration of the Festival Gardens has taken painstaking effort from the many teams and specialists involved and includes two restored pagodas in the oriental gardens, the restored Moon Wall, as well as new lakes, waterways and waterfalls. Summer opening times: 8.30am – 9pm.

SOUTHPORT

With attractions including a fun fair, beaches, indoor water park, marine lake, miniature railway and not forgetting the British Lawnmower Museum, Southport has something for everyone.
CROSBY BEACH
Crosby beach is the permanent residence of Antony Gormley’s ‘Another Place’; 100 cast-iron, life-size figures made from casts of the artist’s own body are spread out along three kilometers of the foreshore. Stretching almost one kilometre out to sea, they appear to be staring at the horizon. The work is seen as a poetic response to the individual and universal sentiments associated with emigration - sadness at leaving, but the hope of a new future in another place.

FORMBY
Whether it’s a walk in the pine woods, a stroll across the sand dunes, relaxing on the beach or maybe even catching a glimpse of the rare red squirrel, it’s all on offer at Formby. Owned by The National Trust, this beautiful and well looked after part of the coastline is well worth a visit.

PRINCES PARK
A grade 2* listed historic park at the end of Princes Avenue, in Toxteth, Princes Park is a real green haven just outside the city centre. The park is probably the only one in town with a donkey’s gravestone; commemorating ‘Judy’ who, during her 21 years service, gave rides to many local children.

OTTERSPOOL
With beautiful views across the River Mersey, the promenade is an ideal place to go for a stroll, walk the dog, cycle or just relax. It also has a children’s playground, hills and parkland which is a favourite place for kite flyers, as well as bars and restaurants (The Otters Pool and The Britannia Inn). Otterspool is also home to Active Adventures, an outward bounds centre which boasts a high ropes course, a 15 metre powerfan, a climbing and abseiling wall, a military style obstacle course, a maze, combat fitness classes and the award winning Otter’s Café and Bistro.

SEFTON PARK
Sefton Park is arguably the best known and most loved park in the city. This magnificent 200 acre park looks like a natural landscape rather than a manmade park, and is always a popular spot with students. Whether relaxing on the grass, playing sport or just taking a leisurely stroll around the boating lake, Sefton Park has something for everyone including the Grade 2 listed Palm House, a lakeside cafe and a children’s playground. The park is also home to annual festivals such as Africa Oye and the Liverpool International Music Festival.
The history of Liverpool charts the most extraordinarily rapid rise from obscurity as an insignificant fishing village to the proud position, at its peak, of a colossal commercial city, the most important other than London in the British Empire. Liverpool began on the banks of a tidal pool which ran inland from the River Mersey. The mouth of the pool was roughly where the Albert Dock is situated and flowed inland (where Canning Place is located) for about a mile to where the entrance to the Birkenhead Queensway tunnel is today. The earliest records of Liverpool were taken from the writings of Ptolemy (90 – 168 AD) who referred to Liverpool as ‘Portus Segantiorum’. Evidence suggests habitation by an early race, possibly ancient Britons, Norsemen and Saxons. Norsemen held rule in Liverpool for some time giving origin to many local place names such as West Derby (“Wild Beast”). Although one of the earliest mentions of Liverpool in the Doomsday Commissions had recorded a few huts surrounded by marsh land and forest, by 1089 a village had developed called Lyrpul or Lytherpul. The origins of the name are uncertain and could be taken from Old English, Danish or Welsh and are possibly a descriptive reference to thick muddy water, inlet by the pool, or slope by the creek. In 1207 King John, realising Liverpool’s importance as a port in his planned Irish and Welsh campaigns, created a Royal Charter to officially recognise Liverpool as a Royal Borough. Subsequently on August 28, 1207, Liverpool was born. Later, in 1235, the Earl of Derby erected Liverpool Castle which stood where the Queen Victoria Monument is today on Castle Street. It was around the time of the English Civil War that Liverpool started to play a national role. In May 1643 Parliamentarian soldiers took the town, erecting defences around it to protect it from Royalist attack. In June 1644 Prince Rupert led a Royalist army of 10,000 to re-capture Liverpool. After repelling the attacks at first, Parliamentarian troops retreated down the Pool to the sea leaving the people of Liverpool to defend themselves which they did fiercely. However, they were overcome, with many killed and the town ransacked. But only weeks later Royalists lost the whole North of England (including Liverpool) at the Battle of Marston Moor. In 1647, as the civil war drew to a close, Liverpool was made an independent port and received preferential treatment from Parliament over Chester (Royalist city). As a port, Liverpool’s strategic significance grew due to the emerging French threat to southern ports. Also, wealthy families fleeing London and the south from the Plague brought finance and skills to Liverpool. The city expanded rapidly in the late 17th century with the emergence of the colonies in North America and the West Indies.
In 1712 the world’s first commercial wet dock was built in Liverpool by architect Thomas Steers. Consequently, trade increased rapidly. The city’s prosperity and emergence as a major world port was due largely to the proceeds of slavery. From about 1730, Liverpool was transformed from a modest trading village into a major mercantile capital, flourishing on the back of the infamous “triangular trading” of slaves for raw materials. However, one of Liverpool’s most famous sons, William Roscoe, was a leading campaigner against slavery and, with support from other prominent Liverpudlians like William Rathbone, was instrumental in seeing the trade finally abolished in 1807.

By the middle of the 19th century, Liverpool was widely recognised as the second city of the British Empire. Liverpool was also the port of entry for many migrants from far flung colonies, making the city one of Britain’s first multi-cultural cities. Architecturally, the city pioneered the vision of emulating the splendour of ancient Greece but had the added influence of its American partners across the Atlantic trade route which set her apart from other English cities. Indeed, Liverpool’s growth was directly linked to the development of North America, summed up by an inscription below a statue of Christopher Columbus in Sefton Park which says “The discoverer of America was the maker of Liverpool”.

In the 20th century the two world wars had a marked effect on the city. The First World War claimed over 13,000 Liverpudlian lives. The Second World War had an enormous impact on the urban landscape of Liverpool. Whole streets and many historic buildings were destroyed in the Blitz between May 8 – 15, 1941, along with almost 4,000 fatalities.

Liverpool began to steadily decline in industrial significance after the war and during the sixties as shipping was lost to South East regions. However, with the emergence of many renowned artists, most notably The Beatles, Liverpool was at the vanguard of the 60s revolution which left an indelible imprint on the world’s cultural landscape.

The turn of the 21st century has seen massive investment into the rejuvenation and development of the city centre, becoming one of the most sought after regions for property. In July 2004 UNESCO awarded Liverpool the status of World Heritage Site, to sit alongside localities such as the Taj Mahal and the Pyramids. In 2008 Liverpool became European Capital of Culture and presided over a spectacular array of events which put the city firmly in the world’s spotlight. Largely due to its unrivalled architecture, the city enjoys a burgeoning film industry leading to the nickname the ‘Hollywood of the North’, with blockbusters such as ‘Captain America’ being shot here. In recent years Liverpool One has made the city one of the most prestigious retail destinations in the north of England, while the city’s new liner terminal is expected to bring a massive boost to tourism in the region and further enhance Liverpool’s status as a major northern city.

Through its chequered role down the centuries as a major gateway to the world and a melting pot of cultures, Liverpool has evolved a character and complexion unique to the banks of the Mersey.

Today the city is famous for its sense of humour, its music, its football, its nightlife and for its enterprise and innovation. But Liverpool is probably most proud to be seen as a place of great cultural achievement and endeavour, a city of great generosity and a city of great spirit.

Getting around is important and Liverpool, like all big cities, has a network of public transport options to get you from A to B.

BUSES

Liverpool City Centre has two major bus stations - Paradise Street and Queen Square. Other main bus stops can be found at Victoria Street, Sir Thomas Street, London Road and Renshaw Street. Some services run all night. For details of Merseytravel’s night buses go to: www.merseytravel.gov.uk

TRAINS

Liverpool has one of the most frequent commuter services outside London. The Northern Line connects Liverpool with Ormskirk, Kirkby, Southport and Hunts Cross, while the Wirral Line links Liverpool with West Kirby, Ellesmere Port, New Brighton and Chester. The local trains serve Liverpool City Centre at four stations: Liverpool Central, Moorfields, James Street and Lime Street, which is the city’s main train station, serving local and national routes.

TICKETS

If you are going to be using public transport regularly then it’s worth considering buying passes, which will make your travel cheaper. Saveaways are cheap, one-day tickets that you can use for travel on buses, trains and ferries in Merseyside at off-peak times.

SEASON TICKETS

Depending on the type of transport you use, Merseytravel has a variety of season ticket options:

Bus Journeys

The taxi service in Liverpool is fast, reliable and most of all cheap. It’s been estimated that there are more taxis in Liverpool per head of population than any other city in the UK, so there are more than enough to go around.

If you call a taxi at 9.30pm on a Saturday night wanting to be in town for 10pm chances are you’re going to be late.

Pre-book if you need to get somewhere urgently (if you’re catching a plane or train, etc) and allow yourself an hour’s grace. Planes and trains won’t wait for you, so it’s better to arrive early. Never call more than one firm and jump in the first car that arrives. This may work a few times but your address will soon be blacklisted by the taxi firms meaning that you will have either a lower priority or no priority at all. If the embarrassing situation of two taxis turning up arises both will leave and you will be stranded.

SEATBELTS
Always wear your seat belt, even if you’re in a hackney cab. If there is an accident not only does it reduce your chances of serious injury but not wearing a seat belt will affect your ability to claim accident compensation afterwards.

Never pick up a private hire taxi from the street without pre-booking it. Not only is it illegal but you will also be uninsured.

ACCIDENTS
We all have a few too many drinks from time to time. But what happens if you are sick in a taxi? Well, you shouldn’t be driven to the nearest cashpoint and relieved of £100+ for ruining their night!

There’s a standard fee, usually about £50, which covers the cost of cleaning the taxi.

BLACK TAXIS
You can pick up a Hackney cab at designated ranks or you can hail one off the street. If a black taxi has its orange light on the driver is obliged to pick up anyone who flags the cab down. Some cab drivers use busy periods or bad weather to try to negotiate with potential customers before a journey. This is illegal and should be reported - you can find their plate number on the back of the taxi.

FARES
On the top left corner of a black cab’s meter you will see the number (or “Trap”) 1, 2 or 3. These numbers are very important. They represent the speed of the price change on the meter: 1 being the slowest and 3 the quickest rate of change. Trap 1 is the daytime rate, Trap 2 the night time rate (after midnight) and Trap 3 the out of town rate. Some drivers might try and switch to a rate that increases your fare, especially if you are a bit drunk.

Like any major city, Liverpool has its rules. Here are a few of the major rules we think you should know about.

SMOKING
If you are a smoker you’ll probably be spending quite a bit of your time outside. All public buildings, including all bars, clubs and venues in Liverpool adhere to the law unequivocally. Luckily, most buildings do have designated outside smoking areas and these are usually sheltered – it won’t stop you getting cold though.

LITTERING
Fixed penalty spot fines are issued to anyone caught littering. Even if you throw a cigarette butt on the street you can be charged £80 by one of the many litter patrol officers. This is non-negotiable.

FLY-POSTING & FLYERING
If you decide to run an event and you think it’s a good idea to fly-post the walls of Liverpool then think again. This can generate a fine of up to £2,000 per poster. Liverpool runs a legal fly posting scheme so if it’s something you need to do it’s best to go down that route. Giving out flyers on the street can carry a fine of £150.

DRINKING IN PUBLIC
Carrying bottles and drinking alcohol in between bars in Liverpool city centre is quite a serious offence and can carry a fine of up to £500.

PARKING

DOUBLE YELLOW LINES
If you leave your car unattended you can be ticketed immediately. In fact you can be given a ticket just for waiting - it does happen.

SINGLE YELLOW LINES
These lines are usually accompanied by a sign on a nearest lamp post indicating a timed parking restriction. If you leave your car unattended within the restricted times you can be given an instant ticket - just like with double yellow lines. And the same rules apply for waiting - you can be given a ticket - but usually on a single yellow you will just be told to move on.

PARKING ZONES
If you are caught in a parking zone without a valid ticket you can be given an instant ticket.

BUS STOPS & DISABLED ZONES
Never park or even stop at bus stops or in disabled zones. Get caught in either and you can forget traffic wardens, the Police themselves will gladly stop and paper your windscreen.

DRIVING
Liverpool has its fair share of speed cameras. Special permanent cameras are set throughout the city to catch speeders and illegal driving manoeuvres. Mobile cameras are often set up at busy times. The advice is simple - don’t speed and drive carefully, or your driving will get much more expensive.

There are over 300 bars, pubs and clubs in Liverpool. In this section we feature a selection of those that have proved most popular with students in recent years.

The venues mentioned are predominantly situated in the Hardman Street, Seel Street and Concert Square areas of Liverpool city centre and these are almost certainly the most student-friendly areas in town.

It is important to remember however, that even though certain bars and areas of town are regarded as student-friendly there is always the possibility of encountering problems such as violence, theft and muggings so you always need to be on your guard and preferably with a group of friends.

Collectively the bars featured offer a wide range of experiences catering for pretty much all tastes and budgets.

We’ve separated these venues into ‘six of the best’, based on our humble opinion. These cover subjects such as where to watch live sports, the city’s ‘Hidden Gems’, ‘Loud and Lively’ bars, ‘Real Pubs’ for a quiet pint, ‘Café Bars’ for when only a cake and coffee will do, our favourite clubs, gay bars and places to take your parents.

Hopefully the info will give you a good starting point for planning some great nights out in Liverpool.

WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

Plan where you are going and how you intend to get to and from there - if you’re travelling with friends by taxi who is paying? Sort this out before you get in the cab and make sure everyone has change.

If travelling by bus or train remember not to annoy fellow passengers - you might be happy and excited about the night ahead - they might be going to work. If you have planned to get a taxi and need to be somewhere at a certain time it’s a good idea to pre-book. This will get you on the system earlier and give you priority over people that ring at the last minute.

BUDGET

What do you intend to spend? What can you afford to spend? Go to the cash point during the day and only draw out what you intend to spend.

Top tip - have an emergency £10 squashed into a tight compartment of your wallet - make it difficult to get so it doesn’t just become part of your normal spend.

DON’T FORGET...

Get cash before your night out and leave your cards in a safe place at home. You might want to take your mobile phone with you, remember to charge it before you go out! If you use your mobile while you are out, make sure you are aware of your surroundings and keep a firm hold on the phone.

GETTING HOME

Before you go out it’s worth giving some thought to how you’re going to get home. Sounds boring but a bit of forward planning could help you avoid being stuck in town.

WALKING

Use your common sense. Do you know the way? Is it a reasonable distance to walk? Don’t forget it will take longer once you’ve got a few drinks inside you. Stick to well-lit paths and close to main roads.
I’m at the bar... big queue... what do you want to drink?

Get us a vodka lime and soda, but don’t get Jen one... she’s smashed 😑 Vicki said you could be fined £1000 🥃 😈

It is against the law to buy alcohol for anyone who is clearly drunk. YOU could be fined £1000.

Merseyside Police are enforcing these laws.

HAVE A PLAN

GETTING A LIFT
Someone offering to be the designated driver is great, as long as they stick to the deal. If you are in any doubt that they are sober don’t get in the car no matter how tempting that lift is. If someone offers you a lift who you don’t know, say no. You might be stuck and just want to get home but there are taxi ranks open all night. Don’t be tempted, only use licenced taxis.

BUSES
It sounds obvious, but make sure you check the number of the bus before you get on. You don’t want to get dropped in the middle of nowhere. It’s worth checking before you go out that the bus you get into town also operates at night. If not you might need to plan an alternate route.

TAXIS
The only taxi that can legally pick up at the roadside is a black cab. Minicabs are only insured to carry you if pre-booked. If you get into a cab alone or put your mate into one, take the driver’s number.
Bringing together an array of live music events, DJ nights, and everything from day time record fairs and vintage clothing swaps, to pub quizzes, tasty home-cooked food and a huge selection of drinks. Six of the Best Gay Liverpool

Stanley Street, Cumberland Street, Victoria Street and Eberle Street are where the bulk of the gay bars and clubs are located in Liverpool. There is a thriving gay community and clubs and bars to suit all tastes. Here are some of the best.

G-BAR
1-3 Eberle St
L2 2AG
Tel. 0151 236 4416

G-Bar, on Eberle St in the hub of Liverpool city centre, has been a mainstay of the Liverpool club scene for over a decade and is one of the city’s most famed and celebrated venues. The club’s massive success is largely due to being such a diverse venue which transforms from being the city’s leading gay venue (bar hours) into the North West’s leading underground after-hours clubbing venue (club hours). The building has three unique rooms: the famous ‘Church Room’, complete with altars and decadent decor, the ‘Bassment’ which is an underground haven for true clubbers with thunderous bass-bins and the ‘Boosh Room’ which adds a quirky, left-field addition to the venue. Open 4 nights a week Thursday to Sunday.

MASQUERADE
10 Cumberland St
L1 6BU
Tel. 0151 227 2005

A longstanding favourite, Masquerade is the perfect place to start an evening of fun and frolics. DJs and drag hostesses will do their very best to help your evening go off with a bang, and it’s definitely the sort of place that will appeal if you like a down-to-earth bar with friendly staff and fantastic banter.

GARLANDS
8-10 Eberle St
L2 2AG
Tel. 0151 236 3307

Garlands is Liverpool’s most outrageous and wild party. Each weekend their flamboyant family welcomes you for a journey through four rooms of hedonistic abandon, with pumping weekend anthems the scintillating soundtrack. Every Thursday as well they create one of Liverpool’s biggest student nights in the shape of Gossip Liverpool.

SUPERSTAR BOUDOIR
22-24 Stanley St
L1 6AF
Tel. 0151 227 4590

If you’re ever passing Superstar Boudoir, expect to be tempted inside by the drag hostesses at the door. The DJ is a flamboyant drag queen, whose deliberately cheesy music attracts not only Liverpool’s gay community, but also hordes of local girls with boyfriends in tow.

NAVY BAR
27–29 Stanley Street
L1 6AA
Tel. 0151 231 1456

One of the Gay Quarter’s swankier outlets, The Navy Bar is a funky bar - big, bold and loud, with a split level seating area and dance floor. You’ll get... a largely diverse crowd here, from the usual hen parties to young couples, but moreover the clientele are fun and friendly. The emphasis here is on high energy partying with swirling disco lighting and pumping house music definitely appealing to the clubbing crowd.

THE LISBON
35 Victoria Street
L1 6BG
Tel. 0151 231 6831

The Lisbon is a hidden-gem basement pub, with ornate ceilings, wood panelled walls and Grade II listed status. It’s a chilled gay and lesbian drinking spot, in the heart of the Stanley Street Quarter. The Lisbon’s relaxed, sociable atmosphere makes a pleasant change from the more loud and lively clubs in the quarter.
So Liverpool has loads of great bars and clubs where you can stay out all night and dance till the sun comes up, but sometimes you just want a quiet pint in a proper pub. In all the hustle and bustle Liverpool hasn’t forgotten about the good old fashioned pub. There are many well loved and well-established watering holes around the city, in all different shapes and sizes. Here is a pick of the best.

THE PILGRIM

Situated over two floors, The Pilgrim has long been a favourite with students. Its downstairs is set out into diner-style booths with a jukebox in each one (sadly ornamental now) and has a real cellar bar feel, but without the dank atmosphere. The well-priced beer and spirits make for a lively and friendly ambience and reasonably priced food is offered throughout the day, from breakfast onwards.

THE SHIP & MITRE

L7 7EB
Tel. 0151 709 0303

How would you like to sit in a pub that was as comfy as your nan’s living room, with a lovely open fire, relaxed atmosphere and (here’s where it may differ from your nan’s house) a cracking selection of guest beers on tap? Well, The Belevdere could be the solution.
Tucked away on Sugnall Street, just off Falkner Street, in a Grade II listed building, The Belvedere was closed for years before it was rescued and refurbished. Well worth a visit.

THE SWAN INN
86 Wood St
L1 4DQ
Tel. 0151 709 5281

The Swan attracts a fiercely loyal clientele due to its fine selection of real ales (Marston’s Pedigree, Wobbly Bob and Old Rosie Scrumpy as well as the supplementary guests brews) and best rock’n’roll jukebox in the city. However, don’t expect to be listening to your choice of music within three or four pints of paying your quid.

THE CALEDONIA
22 Caledonia St
L7 7DX
Tel. 0151 306 0235

This was a national competition that saw Medication beat off the likes of Ministry and Sankeys in Manchester to cement their position as one of the best nights in the country. Quite an achievement seeing as they were the only student club nominated! www.medication.co.uk

Bongo’s Bingo is a zany experience where you take part in Bingo like you’ve never seen it before. With shots delivered on demand, a raffle where you can win a whole range of crazy prizes along with street food and classic anthems to keep you going all night you need to try Bongo’s Bingo at least once!

Block Party at the Brooklyn Mixer is the place to be on Monday nights. The best hip hop, R&B, urban, grime and house music can be found across three floors and an outdoors terrace. Even better the guestlist is free!

Whacky, outlandish and eccentric are just a few of the words you could use to describe a venue like Popworld and Candy Pop dials it all up on a Thursday for their renowned mid-week night. With free entry before 11pm and a setlist of cheesy pop, this has to be one of the must fun nights in the city.

Pumping out party, hip-hop, classic R&B and basement bangers every Tuesday at the Shipping Forecast. The DJs have played with everyone from the Wu-Tang Clan to Dizzee Rascal, De La Soul and Kelis.

If it’s cinema you’re after then you’re in the right place. We have a brand new multiscreen cinema in Liverpool ONE, a multimedia arts complex at FACT, on Wood Street, and a few independent cinemas too, such as the Crosby Plaza - run by volunteers as a charity and showing some great art-house films.

FACT
88 Wood St
L1 4DQ
Tel. 0151 707 4444

A modern cinema for the modern age, FACT shows a range of mainstream and more offbeat films in a contemporary setting, with the smallest of the screens containing sofas rather than traditional cinema seats. The building also has a bar, where you can buy drinks to take in to the screening, a café and an art gallery. A typically inclusive Liverpool outlook means you can choose between the likes of a foreign subtitled film or the latest blockbuster under the same roof.

ODEON LIVERPOOL ONE
14 Paradise St
L1 8JF
Tel. 0333 006 7777

Spread over three floors and housing 18 screens this giant has everything a modern cinema can offer. All the new releases are there and they even have an Imax screen. For a more upmarket experience there’s an upstairs ‘gallery’ - a swanky cinema with comfier seating and its own bar, though at £22 a ticket (including refreshments) this is a pricier affair than the screens downstairs.

CROSBY PLAZA
13 Crosby Rd North
L22 0LD
Tel. 0151 474 4076

Walking in to this community cinema, run as a charity by volunteers, is like stepping back in time. Showing all the latest releases this is the perfect place to unwind in comfort and relive a bygone era where small local cinemas were the standard.

Who do you choose to rent from and how can you make contact with them? Where do you begin looking? What should you look for?

Start your search with Liverpool Student Homes at www.liverpoolstudenthomes.org.

Liverpool Student Homes is the official private rented accommodation service for students and is funded by your University. All landlords who advertise through Liverpool Student Homes have committed to meeting the LSH Standards which are a set of quality and safety criteria. A full copy of the Standards can be found on the LSH website.

LSH work in conjunction with Liverpool City Council and the CLASS landlord accreditation scheme. If you live in CLASS accommodation, it means that your home provides decent and safe living conditions. For details go to: https://liverpool.gov.uk/business/private-landlords/join-up/class-accreditation-scheme/

SAFE HOMES

Remember: healthier homes, healthier lives. The condition of your home plays a big part in your health & well-being.

The property you rent must be free from avoidable hazards.

Would you know what the top five hazards are? They are: excess cold, damp & mould, falling on stairs, falling on level surfaces and flames & hot surfaces.

DEPOSITS

If your Landlord takes a deposit from you, make sure it is protected. A landlord is required to give you information within 14 days of receiving your deposit as to where it is held. If a landlord fails to protect your deposit in one of the statutory schemes, you may seek an order from the court and this may result in compensation.

SIGNING A TENANCY AGREEMENT OR CONTRACT

Avoid signing up to a tenancy without viewing the property first. Remember, a tenancy agreement is a legally binding document. Having an inventory (sometimes called a statement of condition) helps to protect both you and your landlord and can provide evidence to prove the condition of a property at the time it is let.

An inventory should be agreed with you before you move in and a separate list held by you and your landlord.

LICENSING

In April 2015, Liverpool City Council made it compulsory for all rented dwellings in our city to be licensed. This means that your landlord or agent should have applied or be in the process of applying for a license and meet the requirements of the license conditions. The licensing scheme helps bring unregulated properties in the city under a safety umbrella and is aimed at improving standards in dwellings which fall outside of the LSH Standards and CLASS Accreditation.
LSH is a unique service as it’s the only official university funded department that exists to help raise standards in student accommodation and provides support to students if they run into difficulties in their private accommodation.

WHY USE LSH?

LSH is the place to go to look for private accommodation in Liverpool.

The largest choice of flats, houses, and rooms in large city developments with over 24,500 bedspaces advertised.

Registered landlord/agents commit to meeting the LSH Standards

Receive expert housing advice and support

A free, impartial service funded and endorsed by your university

THE LSH STANDARDS

When you are looking for private accommodation you want to be sure that the place you choose is of a good standard and most importantly, safe. How the property is managed by the landlord is also an important consideration, you want someone who is reliable and fair. This is where the LSH Standards can support you.

All landlords who wish to register their properties with LSH are committing to meeting the LSH Standards, which means their accommodation has met our safety criteria and they have agreed to managing the property in the correct way.

This includes:

providing gas and electric safety certificates for their properties

ensuring there is an appropriate fire detection system and carbon monoxide monitors carrying out repairs within reasonable times,

complying with all legal obligations and that they behave in a courteous, professional and fair manner towards their tenants.

You can view the full LSH Standards on our website.

It’s a sad, though not entirely surprising fact, that student homes are some of the most common targets for burglars. Here’s how to make sure yours isn’t one of them

Students own more small, expensive and easily sold consumer items like phones, MP3 players, cameras and laptops and a student house of five is likely to contain five of each. If you’re careful you won’t be an easy target. For a start, you don’t have to bring everything to your new home – leave some stuff behind.

Keeping windows and doors secure is an absolute must. If you live in halls, lock your door whenever you leave your room, even if you’re only going down the corridor.

It doesn’t take long to run in and pick up a mobile phone or MP3 player. If you live on the ground floor of student halls you have to be extra careful about windows to avoid opportunistic thieves.

Friends and acquaintances will be coming and going at all hours of the day so don’t forget to check that all doors and windows are shut and locked, especially if you have been drinking or are going out. If your accommodation has shared access, be careful who you let in to the communal areas and always be wary of people following you in.

Never let strangers in without checking they are who they say they are, reputable trades people will carry ID and won’t mind being asked to show it. If you are in any doubt, don’t let them in.

When renting a house check the locks before you move in. Pay equal attention to both front and back doors.

A high percentage of break-ins are through back doors as they are often less secure. If you aren’t totally confident in their security, you’re within your rights to ask your landlord to install some deadbolts.

Most insurance companies specify that, to make a successful claim, you must have a lock on your bedroom door, even if you are in a shared house. If you don’t have internal locks or adequate security, tell your landlord – you are entitled to decent home security. If you have outside space make sure fences and gates are secure before you move in.

Keep expensive stuff out of sight and shut your curtains when you go out. If you buy new expensive items break the packaging down and take it to the tip, don’t leave it in or by your bin and advertise to potential thieves.

Make a note of serial numbers and keep receipts in case you need to make a claim. Expensive or valuable items should be kept well hidden in a safe place if you don’t want to risk losing them. If there are alleyways to the rear of your property make sure they are kept locked.
HOME SECURITY

You need to take extra care during holidays as student areas are often targeted during these times. If you can, take all of your valuables home with you and leave as little as possible in the house. It’s also worth leaving lights or a radio on a timer so it seems like you are in.

Finally, always make sure your possessions are insured. If the worst happens you’ll need to replace your stuff. Many insurance companies offer student rates so shop around.

YOU’RE NOT ALONE
Leaving home to go to college or university means big changes, such as living in a new area, making new friends, managing a budget and starting your studies.

If you feel constantly unhappy or that you can’t cope, don’t keep it a secret, speak to your GP or university counselling service.

EMERGENCIES - CRITICAL AND LIFE-THREATENING SITUATIONS
The Royal Liverpool Hospital’s A&E department offers emergency care. This includes choking, blacking out, chest pain, heavy blood-loss.

Only dial 999 if you need an ambulance in an emergency.
MUMPS
At University you may be at an increased risk of contracting mumps. This is because you, or your fellow students, may not have had your MMR vaccinations as a child or may have only had one dose. The MMR vaccine provides protection against mumps, measles and rubella. Mumps is a highly infectious disease which spreads from person to person by coughs and sneezes. Although for most people mumps is a mild illness which lasts for about 7-10 days, it can lead to serious complications, including meningitis. In a small number of cases it can even lead to infertility. Universities are a common setting for mumps outbreaks. If you do get mumps you’ll be advised to limit your contact with other people until you’re no longer infectious (which could put a serious dampener on your social life). People with mumps are most infectious just before they become unwell and for 5-10 days afterwards. Make sure that you’re protected against mumps by checking that you’re up to date with your MMR before you start University, or when you register with the University’s medical practice or a local GP.

Symptoms:
- Fever and headache for a day or two.
- Swelling/soreness of the parotid salivary gland (located at the angle of the jaw, in front of the ears).
- Flu-like illness.

MENINGITIS
Meningococcal infection is a relatively rare but potentially fatal condition that can cause meningitis (infection and inflammation of the lining of the brain), blood poisoning (septicaemia), or both. The infection can be spread from person to person by prolonged close contact such as living in shared accommodation or kissing. It is important to keep a look out for common early symptoms, although they don’t all develop straight away. If you think you or someone you know may have meningitis you should seek medical help immediately. If you haven’t previously been vaccinated against Group C meningococcal infection, you should consult your GP about having the vaccine before arriving at University or as soon as possible afterwards. This is a very important vaccine. However it does not protect against other groups of meningococcus bacteria, such as Group B meningococcal infection, so it will still be necessary for you to be aware of the common signs and symptoms of the potentially deadly infections that these harmful bacteria can cause.

Symptoms:
- High temperature/fever.
- Vomiting.
- Neck stiffness.
- Muscle or joint pain.
- Severe dislike of light.
- Disorientation.
- A bruise-like rash that doesn’t fade under pressure.
Save a life – give blood
Visit blood.co.uk or call 0300 123 23 23
MEASLES
The MMR vaccine also protects against measles. If you haven’t had two doses of the MMR vaccine yet, you are also at risk of catching measles. Since the beginning of 2012 there has been an on-going outbreak of measles in Liverpool. Although measles is thought of as a childhood illness, it can affect people of all ages if they are not immune. Measles can be severe, and in the current outbreak around one in every five cases have required admission to hospital. Like mumps, measles can have severe complication like ear and chest infection, or even meningitis. Measles is one of the most highly infectious diseases and can be transmitted through small droplets when you sneeze or cough.

If you catch measles you are infectious from 4 days before and up to 4 days after the onset of the rash, and you will be asked to limit your contact with other people until you are no longer infections.

Symptoms:
Cold-like symptoms.
Red eyes and sensitivity to light.
A temperature.
Tiredness.
Aches and pains.
Poor appetite.
Red-brown spotty rash.

Let’s face it, your time at university will be a rollercoaster ride of easy-going good times and difficult, stressful times. Deadlines, dissertations and exams are hard enough to cope with when you’re really on top of your game. The last thing you need is to make things even harder by getting yourself or someone else pregnant. Many clinics suggest using condoms as well as another method, such as the combined pill, to be doubly safe and to avoid sexually transmitted infections (STIs). Here are some of the options available to you.

CONDOMS

A condom is a sheath made of latex or polyurethane that covers the penis during sex. It must be rolled on very carefully when the penis is erect and before the penis touches the other person’s body. Sharp nails or jewellery can easily damage condoms, as can anything oil-based such as hand cream or Vaseline. There is also a female condom that can be worn inside the vagina. Condoms are the only contraceptives that also protect against most STIs. You can buy them from chemists and supermarkets, or get them free from health centres and sexual health clinics.

COMBINED CONTRACEPTIVE PILL

These are pills containing oestrogen and progestogens that prevent the female body from releasing eggs. Most brands are taken daily for 21 days, followed by a 7-day break. However, these may be made ineffective by vomiting or diarrhoea. If you have either of these symptoms use additional contraception like condoms, while vomiting and diarrhoea is happening and for 7 days after, until you’re protected again.

PROGESTOGEN-ONLY PILL

These are pills which contain progestogens and must be taken daily to remain effective (there is a 3 hour window for some and a 12 hour window for the most common one). As with the combined pill, they may be made ineffective by vomiting or diarrhoea.

CONTRACEPTIVE INJECTION OR IMPLANT

Contraceptive hormones injected into the female body or placed surgically under the skin. These are useful for women who can’t take the combined pill or who forget to take their pills regularly. They can cause irregular bleeding.

INTRA-UTERINE DEVICE OR COIL

IUDs are devices placed inside the womb as a long term method of contraception, mainly to prevent conception from occurring. Prevention of implantation is a secondary action. They can be effective for up to five years.

CAP OR DIAPHRAGM

A barrier placed inside the vagina to prevent sperm reaching the cervix. Use it with spermicide for extra protection. They should be inserted before sex and left in place for six hours afterwards.
EMERGENCY CONTRACEPTION

If you’ve had unprotected sex in the last five days, you may still be able to get emergency contraception. However, you must get to a doctor or sexual health clinic quickly.

The post-coital pill (or ‘morning after’ pill) is still effective up to 72 hours after unprotected sex, but the sooner it is taken the more effective it is. It can be prescribed free by GPs or sexual health clinics, or you can buy it over the counter at certain chemists. Follow the instructions carefully, and if you have sickness or diarrhoea after taking them, speak to your doctor or the chemist to see if you need to take any more. There are other methods of emergency contraception.

Contact your GP or your nearest sexual health clinic for more information about contraception, pregnancy & STIs.

These are some of the most common sexually transmitted infections (STIs). If you have any worries concerning STIs, consult your doctor or medical practitioner.

HERPES
Herpes, also called genital herpes, can only spread if the infection is active and is caused by the herpes simplex virus. The symptoms of Herpes usually appear within a week after sexual intimacy and contact with a person who is infected.

You may contract a mild fever, which may be accompanied with sore and painful itching in the genitals, blisters can then follow. Broken blisters can cause much pain and discomfort. The infectious virus can also spread to the bloodstream and affect other internal organs.

GONORRHOEA
Gonorrhoea is a bacterial infection that infects the genital and non-genital orifices of the body. Gonorrhoea spreads in the reproductive system, and via the bloodstream can infect other body parts. While most gonorrhoea symptoms are similar in men and women, a few are different to each gender.

Men experience a burning sensation when urinating, painful or swollen testicles, and a yellowish white discharge from the penis.

Women experience a vaginal discharge that is yellow or occasionally bloody, a burning sensation when urinating. Infections in the throat cause few symptoms. Even if you don’t have symptoms, gonorrhoea can be transmitted to others; anyone at risk should see a doctor for a test.

CHLAMYDIA
Chlamydia is one of the most common sexually transmitted infections (STIs). It is very easy to treat and cure. It is believed that one in ten sexually active young people have Chlamydia. If left untreated it can cause painful complications and serious health problems such as infertility. For some people there are no symptoms unless the infection has reached an advanced stage.

Women experience bleeding after sex, pain and/or bleeding during sex, lower abdominal pain (pelvic pain), unusual vaginal discharge and pain when passing urine.

Men experience white, cloudy or watery discharge from the tip of the penis, pain when passing urine and possible pain in the testicles.

GENITAL WARTS
Genital warts are mainly small, flesh-coloured bumps. In women it occurs on the vulva and perineal area in the vagina and on the cervix. In men it occurs on the area near the anus, the penis, or between the penis and the scrotum. If genital warts are not treated they can cause cancer of the cervix in women and cancer of the penis in men. Men experience genital warts on the penis or underneath the foreskin, in the urethra (in most cases at the very end of it) and the area around the rectum. Women experience genital warts on the lips of the vulva, in the vagina, or by the urethra. Genital warts can also appear in and around the rectum.

HIV/AIDS

There are four main ways in which the virus can enter the body:

1. Sex
   Rectal intercourse is a very ‘efficient’ way of spreading the virus from one person to another. But the majority of infections worldwide are caused by vaginal intercourse with a person who has the virus.

2. Sharing needles
   Drug users are in the high risk category, if they use needles that have already been used by someone who has the virus.

3. Infected blood products
   In some parts of the world blood intended for transfusion is still not tested for HIV. However, this is NOT the case in the UK.

4. Mother to baby infection
   In addition to sexual activity, the virus can also be spread through infected breast milk, and other bodily fluids such as vaginal fluids and blood. The earliest symptom of this infection is a short, fever-like illness with swollen glands in the groin, armpits and neck and a sore throat.

HIV infected people may not show symptoms for some time, as much as eight to ten years after being infected. As the HIV virus destroys blood cells, it lowers the body’s immunity making it susceptible to weight loss, fatigue, coughs, chills, night sweating, fever, and many other infections.

The HIV virus, eventually, takes over the nucleus of a white blood cell (CD4 lymphocyte), constantly reproducing and releasing more of the virus into the blood stream.

A very small number of cases can occur for other reasons, for example, as a result of an organ donation or a sperm donation from a person who is HIV-positive.

PUBLIC LICE

This infection is caused by a sucking lice that looks very similar to head lice. They mostly live in the pubic hair, as the moistness of the area helps them to thrive and multiply. They are easily treated, but can cause a lot of itching and discomfort at night.

SYPHILIS

Syphilis is a sexually transmitted disease caused by the bacterium Treponema pallidum. It is often called “the great imitator” because so many of the signs and symptoms of the disease are identical to those of other diseases. Syphilis is passed from one person to another through direct contact with syphilis sore. Sores arise mostly on the external genitals, anus, vagina, or in the rectum. Sores also can arise on the lips and in the mouth.

Spread of the organism occurs during vaginal, anal, or oral sex. If pregnant women have this disease they can pass it on to the babies they are carrying.

There are myths about Syphilis, here are the facts. Syphilis cannot be spread through contact with toilet seats, doorknobs, swimming pools, hot tubs, bathtubs, shared clothing, or eating utensils.

VAGINITIS

Vaginitis is associated with an irritation or infection of the vulva. Signs and symptoms vary depending on what type of Vaginitis you have but may include vaginal discharge; itching, burning, foul odour or general vaginal irritation. It can also occur in the male penis, prostate gland or urethra. Candidiasis (or Thrush) is the most familiar form of Vaginitis.

HEPATITIS

Hepatitis refers to viral infections of the liver. There are several types of hepatitis, but here we will discuss the most common - Hepatitis A, B and C. Different types of hepatitis are transmitted in different ways:

- Hepatitis A is transmitted through oral contact with contaminated faeces. It can be passed through sexual contact, especially in men who have sex with men, or by coming into contact with contaminated food. There is a vaccine for Hepatitis A.

- Hepatitis B is highly contagious and usually contracted through sexual contact with an infected partner or through contact with an infected person’s bodily fluids. There is a vaccine for Hepatitis B.

- Hepatitis C is more difficult to acquire than other types of hepatitis and is most commonly transmitted through blood-to-blood contact as can happen when injection drug users share needles. There is no vaccine for Hepatitis C and it can often be incurable.

Hepatitis symptoms vary in intensity from person to person but commonly include:

- Fatigue, at times severe enough to make it difficult to get out of bed.
- Loss of appetite.
- Nausea and vomiting that gets worse as the day progresses.
- Yellowing of the skin and eyes (jaundice).
- Darker urine than normal and sand coloured faeces.
- Dull pain in upper abdomen (Hepatitis A).

Most STIs can be prevented by using condoms. However, even using condoms as a precaution isn’t a guarantee that you won’t catch or spread an STI. Except for HIV and AIDS, most STIs can be treated and cured.

However, timely intervention, diagnosis and medical attention are very imperative.

Most treatments depend upon the type and severity of the STIs.
Having a drink is an important part of socialising for many people. It is important that you know the facts about alcohol, so that you can drink responsibly. Here are a few hints, tips and facts about alcohol.

Make sure you’ve eaten before you drink alcohol.

Drink plenty of water or soft drinks in between alcoholic drinks – remember alcohol dehydrates you.

Don’t be tempted to buy large glasses of wine or double measures just because bar staff offer you them.

Never leave your drink unattended – always get a friend you trust to mind it if you go to the toilet or outside.

NEVER DRINK AND DRIVE.

Keep track of how much you have drunk and pace yourself – don’t feel you have to drink just to keep up with friends.

DRINKING CAN LEAD TO ANTI-SOCIAL BEHAVIOUR, ROAD ACCIDENTS, CRIME AND DOMESTIC VIOLENCE.

Don’t be pressured into buying alcohol for under 18s hanging around outside shops – this is illegal and you could face a fine of up to £80 from the Police.

The UK has one of the highest rates of binge drinking in Europe. The Government daily guideline is 2-3 units for women and 3-4 units for men – get to know the unit contents of your favourite drinks so you can monitor your drinking.

UP TO ONE IN THREE ADULTS IS AT RISK OF DEVELOPING ALCOHOL-RELATED LIVER DISEASE.

Drinking heavily increases your calorie intake and is frequently associated with obesity. Alcohol isn’t a stimulant as most people think – it is a depressant – this is why drinking too much can often lead to violent behaviour and impaired judgement.

The ‘beer belly’ look doesn’t just apply to men, women can develop a belly too. A bottle of wine has 40% of the daily recommended calories for women. This is comparable to three Mars Bars, a Big Mac burger with medium fries or six jam doughnuts. Too much alcohol can cause ‘moobs’ (man boobs) and penis shrinkage.

ALCOHOL IS RESPONSIBLE FOR MORE DEATHS THAN ALL ILLEGAL DRUGS COMBINED. 80% OF DISORDER CRIMES ARE ALCOHOL RELATED.

On average, 13,000 alcohol-related violent incidences take place outside UK bars and pubs every week.

BINGE THINKING

Remember to eat before you drink alcohol.

Don’t save up your weekly spends and blow it in one drinking session.
ALCOHOL ADVICE

Be aware that many pub measures are large and you may be drinking more units than you think.

Pace yourself, decide how many units you want to drink in an evening and stick to it!

DANGEROUS BEHAVIOUR

So you’ve thrown some shapes on the dance floor and no one noticed. Your chat up lines were all rebuffed and the cool approach sitting quietly didn’t work either.

Now everyone’s walking home it’s your last chance. It’s time to show off. Show everyone how dangerous and wacky you are.

Every year young people are seriously injured and even die trying to show off to their friends. And usually drink plays a major part in these activities.

So - no car dodging, no scaffold climbing. And definitely no jumping in the Mersey.

DON’T WALK AWAY

Alcohol is a poison and can have adverse effects on the body if consumed in large quantities.

Make sure you keep an eye on your mates and if someone is taken ill call an ambulance and stay with them. Don’t walk away.

YOUTUBE GENERATION

It is becoming more and more common for people to attempt to video dangerous situations when they should be trying to run away from them.

Always put safety first and never put yourself at risk to get the number one video of that day. You may inadvertently be the star of someone else’s video of the day.

SO REMEMBER:

Take care of yourself and those around you

Do not leave a friend alone after drinking alcohol as it is dangerous

Always call 999 if your friend is unwell/unconscious after drinking alcohol

Basic First Aid can help save your friend’s life
You might think that people who talk about the risk of drug use are scaremongering. Talk of people going mad, moving on from occasional use to more frequent use of harder drugs, it might all seem extreme but there are genuine risks attached. Drugs are unpredictable and illegal drugs are unregulated so you can never really know what you’re getting.

Drug use is common in young people and this includes the student population. Some people try drugs and decide it’s not for them, some people use drugs occasionally and can take or leave them and others go on to become more frequent users.
Around 50 percent of young people admit to having tried at least one recreational drug, most commonly cannabis. It’s likely that you will be offered drugs at some point in your life, if you haven’t been already and it’s important to remember that it’s your body and you have to decide for yourself how to treat it. Understanding the law, the effects and the risks could enable you to help yourself or someone else who is in trouble. These factors all increase the risks when using drugs.

A history of mental illness.

Any physical health problems.

Using in unfamiliar surroundings.

Going off on your own to use drugs.

Buying drugs from strangers.

Using needles, especially shared ones.

Mixing different drugs.

Taking large amounts of drugs in one go.

Some drugs are stronger when they’re added to other ones making mixing drugs extremely dangerous. Certain combinations mask the symptoms of an overdose and even prescription drugs mixed with recreational ones can pose huge risks, including death.

THE LAW SURROUNDING DRUGS

‘Supply’ doesn’t just mean dealing or selling drugs in large amounts. It also includes selling tiny amounts of drugs to friends or giving them away for free. Having drugs on you or at home is classed as possession, that includes storing or carrying them for someone else. Being found with a large amount of drugs on you carries more serious penalties. Driving under the influence applies to drug driving as much as drink driving and you can be charged under the Road Traffic Act 1988.

Letting people take drugs in your house can get you a conviction, even if you don’t take any yourself. You could get thrown off your course at uni if you get caught with drugs. If you get a major drug conviction it can affect your future job prospects. Major drug convictions can also affect your freedom to travel in the future.

CLASS A DRUGS

Ecstasy

Pure Ecstasy is MDMA, a stimulant with very mild hallucinogenic effects. It is mainly sold in pill form and newer pills contain less MDMA so are more likely to contain other drugs. It is also referred to as E, pills, tablets, XTC or names based on the pictures on the pills. Side effects can include anxiety, panic attacks, paranoia, epileptic fits, dehydration, overheating, collapse and death.

The long-term effects of ecstasy are uncertain, but may include memory loss and depression.

Cocaine

This stimulant made from leaves of the coca shrub is sold in wraps of whitish powder and is also known as coke, charlie, powder, beak or gack. The risks include psychological dependency, damage to nose, heart attacks, overdose, anxiety, depression and sexual dysfunction. Overdose is more likely when injected.

Crack

A smokable form of cocaine which is sold in small lumps and is also known as base, wash, stones, or rock. The risks include cravings, addiction and overdose.

LSD

Lysergic acid diethylamide is a hallucinogen which is sold dotted onto paper squares, or in tiny tablets or capsules also known as acid, trips and tabs, which are swallowed.

The risks are panic or paranoia which can lead to accidental or deliberate injury.

Users can also suffer flashbacks, where part of the trip is relived, weeks or months and in some cases even years after taking acid.

Magic Mushrooms

Most commonly Psilocybe semilanceata mushrooms, which grow naturally in Britain and can be either picked fresh or bought dried. They are also known as ‘shrooms, mushies, majicks and are eaten raw, cooked or made into tea. The risks are picking the wrong type of mushroom and being poisoned, bad trips, diarrhoea, flashbacks.

Possessing raw mushrooms is not illegal. If they are prepared for use they are Class A.

Heroin

This drug made from morphine, extracted from opium poppies is also known as Brown, smack, H, horse, skag, gear.

Heroin gives the user feelings of comfort, relaxation or sleepiness and can also cause sickness and vomiting.

Risks of heroin use include overdose, constipation, coma, infection, physical dependency, abscesses from injecting and sharing needles, as well as the risk of HIV/AIDS

Methadone

A synthetic opioid used in the treatment of heroin addiction.

The effects are similar to those of heroin but can last up to 24 hours longer, meaning heroin users attempting to withdraw do not need to take methadone as frequently.

Methadone is a powerful drug, excessive doses can lead to overdose or coma. Misuse can also be fatal. It is a very addictive drug, and tolerance will increase with use.

Class A also includes any class B drug prepared for injection

Maximum penalty for possession:

Seven years in prison and an unlimited fine.

Maximum penalty for supply:

Life sentence and an unlimited fine.
DRUGS

CLASS B DRUGS
Amphetamines
Synthetic stimulants, up to 95% impure sold as an off-white, greyish or pinkish powder that may contain small crystals, or small pills and known as speed, whizz, or uppers.

The risks include irritability, aggression, paranoia, psychosis, overdose and addiction. Injecting makes overdose more likely and increases the risk of HIV and hepatitis infection.

Cannabis
The leaves or tips of the Cannabis sativa plant which contains the active ingredient THC. It has many names including marijuana, weed, hash & grass and can be smoked as a joint, smoked in pipe or eaten. Risks include paranoia, anxiety, nausea and heavy use may affect short-term memory. Strains of cannabis are getting stronger leading to its reclassification from C to B.

Maximum penalty for possession: Five years in prison and a fine.

Maximum penalty for supply: Up to 14 years in prison and a fine.

CLASS C DRUGS
Ketamine
An anaesthetic with painkilling and hallucinogenic properties, it comes in tablet, liquid or powder form. The drug is intended to be used by vets as a sedative and anaesthetic. It may also be known as Green, K, special K, super K or vitamin K. Common effects include out-of-body experiences, hallucinations and temporary paralysis. As with LSD and other hallucinogens, the effects of taking ketamine are influenced by the user’s mood and environment. Because ketamine numbs the body, users run the risk of serious injury without even realising they’ve been hurt. Because of its dissociative effects, a ketamine hit can be an alarming experience, even for those used to taking other drugs. Excessive doses can cause serious breathing problems, unconsciousness or heart failure.

Mild Tranquillisers
Tranquilizers are designed to have a calming effect but should only be used on prescription. Tolerance builds up, which means you need to take more to achieve the same effect. It is also easy to become dependent and withdrawal can be very difficult. If combined with other drugs, especially alcohol, fatal overdose can occur.

Anabolic Steroids
Designed to treat muscle weakness after surgery, sports enthusiasts claim steroids make them able to train harder. If they are taken as part of a strict exercise regime, they can help build muscle mass. They can also help users recover from exercise faster.

Maximum penalty for possession:
Up to two years in prison and a fine.

Maximum penalty for supply:
Up to five in years prison and/or a fine.
PENALTIES
These are the maximum penalties and given in a Crown Court, they don’t usually apply to first-time offenders or people caught with tiny amounts of drugs. In a Magistrates Court, where less serious offences are dealt with, the maximum sentence is six months imprisonment and a £5000 fine. In court, the sentence given will also depend upon:

The drugs involved.
Any previous criminal record (not only drug related).
Your personal circumstances.
The attitude of the magistrate/judge to drugs.
Your attitude in court.

DRUG FIRST AID
If someone is taken ill while you’re in a club, try to find the first aider and if it appears serious call an ambulance.

Here are some tips that may help you deal with some of the common side effects of drugs but if in doubt you should always call for help.

If someone is freaking out and showing signs of anxiety or panic, lead them away from bright lights and loud noises. Try to calm them down by talking to them and reassuring them. If you are unable to get through to them you need to call for help.

Many drugs, like alcohol can cause dehydration. Couple this with the temperature in a crowded club and it’s easy to overheat. The signs include dizziness, tiredness, cramps in arms and legs, dark urine and difficulty urinating. If someone appears overheated sit them down in a cooler, quiet place and get them to sip a pint of water very slowly.

Splash a little tepid water on their face or neck or wipe them down with a damp towel.

If someone collapses it should always be treated as an emergency and an ambulance should be called. Try to gently bring them round and loosen any tight clothing they’re wearing, but don’t shake them hard.

Check to see if they are breathing, and, if they are breathing put them into the recovery position on their left side with their right arm and leg bent, making sure their head is back and their airway is open. If they are not breathing, they need mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. If you don’t know how to do this, put them into the recovery position and wait for help to arrive.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW...

Landlords have an obligation to keep your home safe from fire. If you live in privately rented accommodation, your landlord has to meet certain safety obligations under the law, including ensuring all gas and electric appliances are safe and in good working order.

Your landlord must show you safety certificates so you can see when gas and electrical appliances were last tested.

Your landlord should supply a carbon monoxide detector and test it regularly. You can’t see, feel or smell carbon monoxide, but it can be fatal if you breathe enough of it.

If you are worried that your landlord isn’t doing enough to ensure your safety, contact the Environmental Health Officer at your local council.

SMOKE ALARMS SAVE LIVES!

You are advised to test your alarm once a week.

Strobe light and vibrating pad alarms are available for those who are deaf or hard of hearing. Contact Merseyside Fire and Rescue Service for further details. Merseyside Fire and Rescue Service will come to your accommodation and give you free fire awareness advice and where necessary, fit new alarms.

Call 0800 731 5958

Plan An Escape Route

Make sure everyone knows how to get out of your house if there’s an emergency – it could save your life.

Keep all fire exits clear and keep all fire doors closed.

They help to slow down the spread of fire and will give you extra time to escape.

IN THE KITCHEN

Cooking and drinking alcohol never mix. If you want something to eat and you’ve been drinking, make a sandwich or buy something on the way home.

Never leave cooking unattended.

Keep tea-towels and cloths away from the cooker and hob. Double check that the cooker is off when you have finished cooking.

CHIP PANS & DEEP FAT FRYERS

Take care when cooking with oil, it sets alight easily.

If the oil starts to smoke, IT’S TOO HOT. Turn off the heat, leave it in situ and wait for it to cool down.

Use a thermostat controlled electric deep fat fryer. If they are working property, they can’t overheat.

BE EXTRA CAREFUL WITH ELECTRICS

Avoid overloading sockets, keep to one plug per socket.

Never use heaters for drying clothes and always keep them a safe distance from other items that may catch fire. Inform your landlord straight away.
if you are concerned about the electrics in your property and never fix faulty electric items yourself. Stop using them, inform your landlord or call a qualified electrician.

STAY SAFE WITH CANDLES AND CIGARETTES

Make sure cigarettes are put out properly. Never empty an ashtray into the bin before you go to bed, fill it with water and leave it overnight.

Be careful with candles and tea lights. Avoid placing them near material that could burn or catch fire.

If you have any questions about the issues raised in this guide please contact Merseyside Fire and Rescue Service.

Merseyside is a safe place to live, work, visit and study. Merseyside Police are working hard to tackle crime and disorder. In fact Merseyside is one of the safest metropolitan areas in England and Wales with lower levels of recorded crime than similar police forces.

Merseyside Police covers the areas of Wirral, Sefton, Knowsley, St Helens and Liverpool. Each of these areas is split up into Neighbourhoods that are policed by a Neighbourhood Team led by a Neighbourhood Inspector.

Details of the Neighbourhood Team that police the area you live in can be found on the Merseyside Police website: www.merseyside.police.uk.

The website contains lots of useful information about what is happening in your area and details such as crime prevention advice, force policies and details of people wanted by the force. It will also tell you how to contact Merseyside Police and your Neighbourhood team, but if you do not have access to the internet, please telephone 0151 709 6010 for further details.

Merseyside Police recognise the student population reflects the wider community so is very diverse in its make up and consists of a wide range of different diverse groups.

Unfortunately, there are instances when people from minority groups are subject to unacceptable or inappropriate behaviour, threats or even worse. In most instances this will be categorised as a Hate Crime. It is very important to Merseyside Police that such incidents are reported. In the unlikely event of you becoming a victim of crime and, in particular, a Hate Crime, you are encouraged to report such incidents to the Police. Hate Crime is defined as:

Hate Incident, which constitutes a criminal offence, perceived by the victim or any other person, as being motivated by prejudice or hate. Any crime can be motivated by hate or prejudice.

Any offence where Disability, Race, Religion or Faith, Sexual Orientation or Gender Identity is the motivating factor.

Hate Crimes are investigated vigorously by Merseyside Police’s Sigma Hate Crime Investigation Teams. Superintendent Rowley Moore who heads the Force Community Engagement Team said: “Merseyside Police recognises the impact Hate Crimes can have on victims and communities, we at Merseyside Police take the reporting and investigation of such crimes extremely seriously”.

We want the message to be clear to both victims and offenders that offences motivated by someone’s Disability, Race, Religion or Faith, Sexual Orientation or Transgender will not be tolerated and will be robustly investigated by the forces Sigma Teams.

“Remember - If you witness it or experience Hate Crime - Report it.”

If you’ve been affected by hate crime, you may need help, support or practical information. This can include anything from emotional support and counselling to financial advice, help with housing, crime prevention information or legal guidance.

Victime Care Merseyside is a comprehensive, dedicated support website for victims of crime in Merseyside. It contains the details of the many groups which offer support and services to help you cope and recover. It is designed so you can search for information by the type of crime you have been affected by and also by geographical area, to make it as easy as possible for you to find the services you need.

This service is free, impartial and available to everyone regardless of whether a crime has been reported to the police or not, or when the crime happened. Simply visit www.victimcaremerseyside.org

Remember only use 999 in an emergency. If you require the Police for a non-emergency situation please ring 101.
Violence and aggression are now considered one of the most serious occupational hazards facing staff in the healthcare sector. The North West Ambulance Service NHS Trust, which covers the Merseyside area, is actively tackling this problem in order to protect its staff.

The North West Ambulance Service (NWAS) actively promotes its ‘Stop Abuse’ campaign in Liverpool, and across the rest of the North West, which aims to raise awareness of the violence and aggression that can be directed at ambulance staff and reinforces that it will not be tolerated. It is delivered in partnership with Merseyside Police, Cheshire Constabulary, Greater Manchester Police, Lancashire Constabulary, Cumbria Constabulary and numerous Pub Watch schemes operating in the region. The scheme was piloted here in Liverpool city centre in December 2007 and has now been developed across the North West region.

‘Pub Watch’ or as it is known in Liverpool, Licensees Watch, is a national voluntary organisation set up to support existing licensees and encourage a safe, secure social drinking environment in all licensed premises, helping to reduce drink-related crime. It’s supported by local police forces.

Most of the pubs in Liverpool will be members of the Licensees Watch. The ‘Stop Abuse’ partnership works together to alert the public of the unacceptable behaviour of individuals who assault ambulance crews and encourages ambulance crews to report assaults both internally, and via the Police and Pub Watch. If an ambulance crew is subjected to a physical or verbal assault inside a licensed assault premise, then the offender may find themselves being issued with a banning order by that particular Pub Watch membership. The banning order can be given irrespective of whether any criminal sanction is given by the police.

The banning order will see you excluded from all other pubs and clubs within the area where the Pub Watch Scheme operates.

Banning orders can be for a minimum of three months to a maximum of 12 months but this can be extended if required.

Toothache? Sore throat? Hangover? Split condom?

These are just some of types of 999 calls received by North West Ambulance Service (NWAS) that affect its ability to respond to urgent calls. That’s why NHS Northwest are urging you to ‘Choose Well’ during your time at University.

Choose Well is an established NHS Northwest and Department of Health campaign which was initially developed to help educate the members of the public on how to stay safe and look after their health by making the most appropriate choice of care when in need.

NWAS supports the Choose Well initiative and has adapted the messages to be more appropriate to ambulance usage. While you are out and about in the city; going to a lecture or going for a sociable drink with friends you may be able to spot ‘Choose Well’ posters on some Emergency Ambulance and Patient Transport vehicles.

For most of you, this may be the first time you have lived away from home and you may find yourselves at some point not feeling very well or in need of medical advice. The Choose Well campaign aims to encourage you as a member of the public to consider alternatives to calling the 999 number and A&E such as phoning NHS Direct, or going to minor injury units, walk-in centres or your own GP’s surgery.

This campaign will be promoted throughout the year so please don’t forget to tell you friends and families about the Choose Well initiative.

If you would like more information please go to: www.nwas.nhs.uk
ICE

If you were involved in an accident, would the emergency services know who to contact if you were unable to tell them? Simply storing family or friends details in your mobile phone, or carrying them in your purse or wallet will help the emergency services contact the people that matter to you.

ICE stands for In Case of Emergency and it’s what the emergency services will look for if you are involved in an accident. In your mobile phone address book, simply add the letters ICE in front of the name of the person you would want to be contacted.

And remember...

Make sure that the person whose name and number you are using knows that they are your ICE partner.

Ensure that your ICE partner has a list of people to contact on your behalf.

Make your ICE partner aware of any specific medical requirements.
