Welcome

For advancement of learning and ennoblement of life

At the University of Liverpool, we believe in helping students to become international graduates and global citizens. By developing a wide range of employability skills our graduates are well placed to succeed in their professional lives. To support our students in gaining such invaluable skills, we offer a fantastic range of study abroad opportunities for students to take part in during their undergraduate years, as well as some of the most generous funding in the Russell Group for Study Abroad. We hope that this guide will inspire you to choose to participate in Study Abroad – this could be one of the most exciting decisions of your academic career.

Professor Janet Beer
Vice-Chancellor
Study Abroad is an amazing opportunity to spend either a part of your Liverpool degree or some of your summer vacation abroad through our network of exchange partner universities.

Some of the most important points about Study Abroad are:

● You do not need to speak a foreign language to study abroad
● You are still eligible for Student Finance funding throughout your exchange
● There are various grants/scholarships available (see page 22 for more information)
● You are still a registered student with us, as well as becoming a fully registered student at the partner university. This means you can access all the support services (academic and personal) at both universities
● There are different types of Study Abroad opportunities that you can apply for, each with their own benefits.

Semester abroad

One semester (around 4-6 months) in your second year (three year degree programmes and four year degree programmes which include a Year in Industry) or third year (all other four year degree programmes). This option does not add any extra time to your degree and is credit bearing (ie counts towards your Liverpool degree). Find out more in the Erasmus+ (pages 08-09) and Worldwide (pages 10-11) sections.

Year Two @ XJTLU

Students on certain Liverpool programmes can spend their second year of study at Xi’an Jiaotong-Liverpool University (XJTLU), our English speaking joint venture University in China. This replaces the second year at Liverpool and you would take classes from your degree subject area only. This option does not add any extra time to your degree and is credit bearing. It is different from Year in China (see opposite). Find out more in the Opportunities at XJTLU section (pages 12-13).

Year in China

An additional year, usually between second and third year, spent at our joint venture Xi’an Jiaotong-Liverpool University (XJTLU) in China. Whilst at XJTLU (a fully English-speaking university), you would follow classes from their BA China Studies programme learning about Chinese language, culture, society and politics. This option will add an extra year to your degree and is credit bearing; your degree title will change to ‘Subject with a Year in China eg BA Philosophy with a Year in China. Find out more in the Year in China section (page 14).

Summer abroad

These are short-term summer placements, either participating in a summer school or a research project. These are not credit bearing and do not add extra time to your degree. Find out more in the Summer Programmes section (page 16).

Clinical rotations/placements

Students in Veterinary Medicine, Occupational Therapy and Physiotherapy have the opportunity to apply to take some of their rotations/placements at some of our Erasmus+ partner universities (see page 08).

When a student goes on exchange, they remain a registered student with us as well as becoming a fully registered student at the partner university. This means you can access all the support services (academic and personal) at both universities. All of our partners have an equivalent Study Abroad Team who will act as the first point of contact whilst you are abroad.

The Study Abroad Team at Liverpool provides a range of services to support students before, during and after your time abroad.

Studying abroad is a really exciting prospect but sometimes it’s difficult to know where to start. The Study Abroad Team wants students to be as informed as possible about the various opportunities available and what they entail. We do this by offering numerous information sessions and resources, such as:
- Study Abroad Fair
- Drop-in sessions
- Global Connect meetings
- In-depth pre-application and pre-departure briefings
- Online Study Abroad Tool Kit.

Whilst students are abroad, the Study Abroad Team continues to stay in contact with you and can provide support when it is needed.

We can help by:
- Liaising with our partner universities
- Arranging Skype meetings
- Administering required documentation.

Even when students return from studying abroad we want to make sure your international journey continues! There are numerous ways for you to get involved with all things international on campus including:
- Attend welcome back and career development events
- Become a Study Abroad Ambassador
- Sign-up to be a buddy for our inbound students and future study abroad students.

From the Summer School in July 2014 to embarking upon the new flagship Year in China programme in August 2016; my study abroad experience has had a considerably positive impact upon myself and my future career. Not to mention that I’ll be flying back for a Summer internship at XJTLU!

In such a competitive world and with the increasingly globalised nature of the modern workplace, it is important to make yourself stand out from the crowd. Not many people can say that they’ve taken it upon themselves to move away from home into a completely different society and culture and plunge into a new world.

As daunting and scary as it may seem at first, my study abroad experience has opened numerous doors for me. Perhaps the biggest being that it has enhanced my CV and most definitely boosted my employability. Alongside my Year in China studies I volunteered at a domestic law firm and had an internship at XJTLU. These experiences all improved my cultural awareness and my ability to communicate and work effectively with people from different cultures and backgrounds. My Mandarin also considerably improved as I was constantly exposed to the language. There is no better way to learn a language than being in the country it originated from!

My study abroad experiences have set me apart from the majority of other students and will continue to provide me with a lifetime of benefits for my future career. I would encourage you all to apply even if you aren’t sure. Remember, you only regret the things you don’t do!

WHAT\ABROAD?

WHY

Our students report that they develop and enhance a number of important life skills while they study abroad, including self-reliance, confidence and problem-solving skills.

Study Abroad is your chance to explore a new country and become part of a local culture. It is also a great opportunity to travel to nearby countries, expanding your cultural horizons.

Our carefully selected exchanges partnerships, with some of the best universities in the world, offer students the chance to study modules that you can’t study in Liverpool.

Students who participate in Study Abroad often obtain better marks compared to non-mobile peers.

Students who study abroad are more likely to receive a First or 2:1.

Less than 5% of UK students study abroad which clearly helps you stand out.

Students who participate in Study Abroad are more likely to earn a higher than average salary.

I went to Charles University in Prague for my semester exchange. Before I left, I wasn’t sure what to expect from the experience. What I found was that my time away was a combination of familiarity and differences which made for an amazing experience. It was incredible to explore the culture of the Czech Republic and I learnt so much which helped me grow both academically and personally. I gained so much knowledge and confidence during my time abroad and it has encouraged me to become even more independent. An overall amazing experience!

Erasmus+ is the European Union’s flagship exchange programme which has facilitated the exchange of over three million university students across Europe since 1987. Administered by the European Commission, the programme provides funding and support for students to study in another EU country.

Our partners
The University of Liverpool is proud to participate in the Erasmus+ scheme, providing students from a number of subject areas with the opportunity to spend a semester abroad in Europe. We’re partnered with some of the most prestigious universities in Europe including Copenhagen Business School (Denmark), the University of Leiden (The Netherlands) and Lund University (Sweden).

Erasmus+ funding
If you participate in an Erasmus+ exchange then you’ll receive a monthly Erasmus+ grant (funded by the European Commission), which can help you with the extra costs of living abroad (see page 22 for more information on funding).

Teaching in English
Whilst your classes will be taught in English at all of our Erasmus+ partner universities, Erasmus+ also offers lots of opportunities for you to pick up aspects of the local language. Many of our partner universities offer free or subsidised courses in the local language (including regional languages), adding an extra dimension to your time abroad.

EU referendum outcome
Following the EU referendum result for the UK to leave the European Union there will be no immediate change to the UK’s participation in the Erasmus+ programme and the UK National Agency will continue to manage and deliver the programme across the UK. The University therefore looks forward to sending and receiving Erasmus+ students during 2018/19.

I went to Italy to meet people and study in the sun, but I got so much more out of it! Studying abroad showed me a different perspective on my subject and allowed me to learn from others and their unique approaches. The challenges I encountered have given me the skills and confidence to do a PhD, and an international friendship group who celebrate New Year’s Eve in a different country every year!

The University of Liverpool is proud to hold exchange agreements with some of the best universities around the world, including the University of Hong Kong, the University of Ottawa (Canada) and University of New South Wales (Australia).

Funding
Home and Islands students participating in Study Abroad at a worldwide partner are eligible for a grant from the University of Liverpool and, if you are in receipt of the Liverpool Bursary then there are other scholarships you can apply for (see page 23).

Teaching in English
All of our worldwide Study Abroad partners are English-speaking universities (ie all teaching and administration will be in English) but in non-English speaking countries there is often the chance to take classes in the local language too, sometimes for credit.
The differences between British education and that of Asia, North America and Australia make worldwide study abroad a great option for you to expand your educational horizons.

Study outside of Europe:

WORLDWIDE

Study Abroad has been a fantastic experience. Academically, being exposed to a slightly different system of learning, I feel better prepared for third year and have definitely come out of the experience a better student. The great thing about studying abroad is not only meeting people from your host university, but it also gives you the chance to interact with other international students who all come from a huge range of cultural and national backgrounds. I don’t have a single regret about my decision to study abroad, if anything I wish I could have stayed longer!

Study in China:

OPPORTUNITIES AT XJTLU

The University of Liverpool, in conjunction with Xi’an Jiaotong-University, a top 10 Chinese university, is unique in having established the first joint Sino-British institution in China: Xi’an Jiaotong-Liverpool University (XJTLU). Through this special partnership, we are able to offer students from many departments the life-changing opportunity to spend time studying in China.

XJTLU is an ultra-modern campus located in the Higher Education Town (HET) in Suzhou, one of the ancient Chinese capitals. Known as the Venice of the East, Suzhou is only 30 minutes from Shanghai by bullet train.

All XJTLU degrees are awarded jointly by both XJTLU and the University of Liverpool. This means all XJTLU programmes are approved by the University of Liverpool and fully taught in English.

Semester Abroad at XJTLU
At XJTLU you will follow a programme very closely related to the Liverpool curriculum, taught fully in English but with the added benefit of understanding your subject in a Chinese context. To see if this option is available to you, check our searchable website www.liverpool.ac.uk/study/undergraduate/goabroad/search.

Year Two @ XJTLU
Students from selected degree programmes are able to replace your second year of study at Liverpool with one spent at XJTLU. It is similar to a Semester Abroad (see above) in that you will follow modules from your subject area and it will not add any extra time to the length of your degree. To see if this option is available to you, check our searchable website.

Year in China
Students from the majority of our subject areas have the fantastic opportunity to add a Year in China to their degree, spending nine months at XJTLU learning about this incredible country and developing Chinese language skills. Check out the pages overleaf for more details.

Summer at XJTLU
Our students also have the exciting opportunity to spend two or four weeks at XJTLU during Liverpool's summer vacation period following a Chinese Language Summer School. For more details see Summer Programmes on page 16.
Year in China is our exciting flagship programme. Launched in 2015, over 70 students have participated in this incredible experience. The Year in China programme has been designed to offer as many students as possible a fantastic opportunity to participate in a life-changing, international experience.

Year in China will allow you to experience and gain an understanding of this amazing country. It is different from our other Study Abroad opportunities as you will combine your Liverpool degree with an additional year spent at our English speaking partner university X’ian Jiaotong-Liverpool University.

What will I study?
During your time at XJTLU you will study:
- Chinese language
- China studies
- Depending on your academic department, a module relating your degree programme in Liverpool.

How does it fit in with my degree?
- Most students will go to XJTLU at the end of second year
- Your Year in China will contribute 10% of your final degree
- Your degree will extend by one year

Why should I go on Year in China?
You already know that Study Abroad has lots of benefits, including improving your employability and your personal self-development. But there are lots of extra reasons why Year in China is a great choice:

- Learning Chinese is important for the future. A report from the British Council identified Chinese as number four in a list of ten languages which will be of crucial importance for the UK’s prosperity, security and influence in the world in the years ahead.
- China offers unique opportunities. China is a rapidly developing nation with the largest population on Earth. Its people represent a multitude of cultures and customs and this comes with a specific set of opportunities and challenges. As such, you simply can’t get the learning experience that China can offer you anywhere else in the world. The opportunities to explore this dynamic, beautiful and ever-changing country are endless!
- Nearly everyone can participate. Year in China is open to nearly every degree programme in the University. The only exclusions are:
  - Dentistry
  - Health Science programmes
  - Any programme which already has either a compulsory Year Abroad or Year in Industry/Research which takes place in year three of your course
  - Any programme which includes the study of a Modern European Language.

For more information about Year in China, check out our dedicated webpage www.liverpool.ac.uk/yearinchina

I think the most important and exciting part of studying abroad is keeping an open mind. For my study abroad experience I wanted to visit somewhere challenging and different from my home country. The language, culture, people, food, education system and even the internet in China are all unique. Once you live in another country you quickly learn to adapt and grow, you embrace all these differences and eventually they become a normal part of your life. It is really important to take advantage of every opportunity, wholly embrace a new style of living and perspective because it is a once in a lifetime opportunity. It takes a lot of maturity and independence to live abroad for a year, and these personal attributes are essential for any graduate.

Abigail Moses
BA Philosophy, Year in China @ XJTLU
Summer programmes take place in the summer vacation period and are not credit-bearing. This means that, for many of the options, you can apply regardless of your degree programme and in any year of study (except your final year). Some programmes are specific to a particular topic, whilst others will allow you to take a range of classes from different subjects.

We do have some free places available on our summer programmes and students awarded these places will only pay for accommodation and spending money. We always prioritise students in receipt of the Liverpool Bursary for the tuition-free places.

For a number of summer programmes, if you don’t get a free place, as a Liverpool student, you will receive a discount on the regular tuition fee.

Home and Islands students who attend a summer programme will receive a grant of a minimum of £250 towards associated costs and if you are in receipt of the Liverpool Bursary, you will receive an additional top up of £250. UK Engineering students who apply for the programme at the Chinese University of Hong Kong can apply for the John William Roberts Scholarship to cover the cost of accommodation and return flights.

Summer programmes are a great way to get a taster for Study Abroad and experience international mobility for a shorter period of time.

Study Abroad has really provided me with the opportunity to make amazing friendships across the globe while being able to learn about fascinating subjects outside of my degree. After spending the most incredible semester abroad at McGill University, Canada, I could not wait to take part in the CUHK summer programme, knowing it would be just as brilliant. The CUHK campus was beautiful and I really enjoyed getting to learn more about Hong Kong culture and tradition. I was also completely overjoyed to find several of my friends from Canada living in Hong Kong. Getting to reunite with them was a major highlight of my experience! It really is a small world and Study Abroad has truly allowed me to experience a glimpse of it.

To make it easier for you to see the opportunities available to you, we have created a search tool on our website www.liverpool.ac.uk/study/undergraduate/goabroad/search. Simply go to the website and use the tool to find out more about the specific countries, courses, and partner universities that offer overseas study placements. You can jump straight in by carrying out a search, or if you’re interested in a particular country, course, or university, then try browsing opportunities using the menu.

The website also lists detailed information about all of our partner universities, including estimated cost of living, accommodation, city information, and the compatible semester of study.

If you are studying a Joint Honours, Combined Honours or Major/Minor combination, there must be at least one partner university compatible with both of the subjects which make up your degree in order for you to apply for a study abroad opportunity. If your programme is not listed then no compatible opportunities exist at this time. But please see information on our Year in China (page 14) and/or Summer Programmes (page 16) for other potential options.
Money Matters

If you are participating in a Study Abroad programme you will still be entitled to all of your normal student loans and grants and you may be entitled to extra funding from Student Finance. All students participating in a Study Abroad programme are eligible for University of Liverpool travel insurance. You will not pay any tuition fees to your host University (with the exception of some of the Summer Programme options see page 16). Also the amount of your tuition fees payable to the University of Liverpool can vary depending on the Study Abroad programme you apply for, please see the table below:

The main costs that you need to consider when applying for Study Abroad are:

- Travel to your host city
- Accommodation in your host city
- Living costs, including food and public transport (actual living costs will vary according to your lifestyle)
- The cost of a visa (where necessary) for your host country.

You can check out profiles of each of our partner universities on the Study Abroad webpages (www.liverpool.ac.uk/goabroad), which include estimated living costs.

To help you with the costs of studying abroad, there are different funding opportunities available depending on your destination or the Study Abroad programme you’ve applied to, which we’ve summarised in the table opposite.

*Please note that for these scholarships, students in receipt of the Liverpool Bursary will receive priority in the shortlisting process.
In order to make it easier for you to spend a semester abroad, the University has created the Study Abroad Village, based in the newly refurbished Melville Grove and Tudor Close. The Village houses both returning Liverpool students and students from our partner universities, creating a truly international atmosphere. The rooms will be let on a semester basis, allowing you to plan your time abroad effectively. There are approximately 300 rooms available (but please note that, where necessary, preference is given to our incoming students from our partner universities in the first instance).

Many of our partner universities either guarantee or offer a number of rooms in their Halls of Residence for exchange students and they will assist you in applying for these. Those partners who do not have rooms available in Halls of Residence will provide guidance and advice regarding housing in the private sector, both before and once you arrive. However, it is important to remember that ultimately, it is your responsibility to arrange your accommodation. We can put you in contact with Liverpool students who have studied in your host city, so they can tell you about their own accommodation arrangements whilst they were abroad.
How does the University choose its exchange partners?
We’ve chosen our exchange partners because, like Liverpool, they’re very highly ranked by independent bodies, and highly regarded for their innovative approaches to research and teaching. The University of Liverpool has been commended for its rigorous approval process of new exchange partners. All of our partners have an equivalent Study Abroad Team who will act as the first point of contact whilst the student is abroad. For more information regarding support offered from the Study Abroad Team please see page 04.

What fees will students pay to an exchange partner?
Our students don’t pay tuition fees to the host university but they will have to pay accommodation fees and occasionally registration fees too. Some universities require mandatory health insurance. Tuition fees are still paid to the University of Liverpool, the amount can vary depending on the Study Abroad programme. Summer programmes may incur some tuition fee costs. For further information on fees and money matters please see page 22.

What support will students receive during their exchange programme?
When a student goes on an exchange, they remain a registered student with us as well as becoming a fully registered student at the partner university. This means they can access all the support (academic and personal) services at both universities. All of our partners have an equivalent Study Abroad Team who will act as the first point of contact whilst the student is abroad. For more information regarding support offered from the Study Abroad Team please see page 04.

Will studying abroad extend the time it takes a student to complete their degree?
All of our Study Abroad programmes do not extend a student’s degree (with the exception of the Year in China). See the summary table on page 03 for detailed information on how Study Abroad works at the University of Liverpool.

Why is studying abroad a good thing to do?
There are lots of brilliant reasons why Study Abroad is such a fantastic experience. Study Abroad can be a great alternative to taking a gap year in order to see the world. By combining study and travel, participants get to meet new people and have fun whilst studying in a different country, but, more than this, students will have an excellent achievement to add to CV’s and a whole range of skills and experiences to talk about in job interviews. Academically, studying abroad provides an opportunity to broaden academic horizons and gain a different perspective to a subject area by studying modules different to those offered here at Liverpool.

How can I help my son/daughter on their Study Abroad journey?
Study Abroad is an empowering experience that should be embraced by students in every aspect – from initial enquiry, through to choosing a destination and getting on the plane. We advise parents/supporters to encourage students to do as much research as possible about their chosen programme and destination. The more prepared students are the more successful their experience turns out to be! If students have questions regarding any aspect of Study Abroad we encourage parents to ask their son/daughter to contact the Study Abroad Team. The Team is here to help students become independent, confident individuals through this life-enriching experience.
Study Abroad is an increasingly popular and competitive scheme, which means we can’t guarantee that all students who apply will be offered a place. However, we will always do our best to offer places to as many people as possible who meet the academic requirements.
