

UoL Vets Squash is LUVS' newest club and we're already making quite a name for ourselves within in the Vet School! We welcome anyone from experienced squash players to complete newbies as our sessions are filled with fun training games and chances to play matches in a relaxed and supportive environment. The squash society is one big family and it's a great way to have a mid-week destress.

One of the events we run throughout the year includes our Staff VS Students Match Day which is a great chance to get to know your lecturers (and watch them fall over!) as well as raise money for our charities. Last year we lost the trophy so are eager claim it back.

We plan to organise various squash and socials with the Uni, Medics and Dentists squash teams. We want to branch out and give the team a chance to meet lots of people outside of their course and have some good nights out with other societies!

Outside of our normal training sessions, vets squash runs regular socials throughout the year which range from classy Christmas parties, laid back drinks after sessions and of course some very messy AU nights! We're always looking for more fun and exciting new ways to bring the team together.

So come along, try out one of our sessions and unleash your stresses on a squash ball! If you have any questions, don't hesitate to check out our social media or message one of our committee members.
